THE LIFE OF GEN. L. G. RUTHERFORD.

Something About the Democrat Nominee for Sheriff.

ADA MAN SHOOT'S NEIGHBOR'S HORSE.

GOOD TIMES AGAIN.

Persons who habitually pass through manufacturing districts and make observations where workingmen most do congregate, are pleased with the bright and happy countenances which confront them. The languid air and hopeless features so common a year ago are seldom seen. Nearly all are well clad and seemingly well fed. The women have assumed the appearance of gaiety as well as contentment and the children, instead of looking hungry, weazen and sad are bright, active and playful. The change is pleasant to the eye and grateful to the heart. It is a change from enforced idleness and consequent want to cheerful industry and that abundance which follows. The storm raised by improper legislation and the loss of confidence which produces panic has abated its force and the skies are once more bright. "Calamity howlers" have failed to perpetuate the reign of terror and after the November elections they will probably slink away into their caves and be heard of no more for many a day.—[Grand Rapids Evening Press, Nov. 1, 1894.]

THE DEMOCRATIC RALLY

at Train's opera house, Wednesday evening, was a successful one from all points of view, except as to weather, a heavy rain falling throughout the evening. However, the hall was well filled; and the people were greeted by a handsomely decorated stage. The ladies having the work in charge discharged the task well.

John M. Mathewton presided over the meeting, introducing, first Charles M. Wilson, candidate for prosecuting attorney, who made a brief speech on the income tax. He said that it was one of the cardinal principles of law that every man should pay taxes for the support of the government in proportion to his ability to pay and the protection he receives from the government. The income tax as enacted by the Democratic party, was clearly within those lines.

In a brief speech, in the course of which he thanked his Democratic and Republican friends for what they had tried to do for him, Mr. Mathewton then introduced Gen. Rutherford and said he hoped they would do for the General what they would have done for himself.

Gen. Rutherford made a powerful argument for Democracy and wound up with a plea for the old soldiers, many of whom were present. He was listened to with close attention and frequently applauded.

Hon. John C. Blanchard was the last speaker and he made a characteristic address.

The meeting closed with three cheers for the speakers.

This closes the local, Democratic campaign.

GEN. L. G. RUTHERFORD, the Democratic nominee for Congress in this district, is one of those good old types of sterling manhood—a self-made man. Born of poor parents in a little log house in Bath, N. Y., fifty-two years ago, he was left an orphan at the age of 4 years, and that tender period was compelled to strike out for himself.

His first employment was at the age of eight years, to ride horse to plow out corn at 25 cents a day. The crop had been planted on new ground among pine stumps, and the job was anything but an easy one, but the little fellow stuck to it until it was finished, and at the end of the season had earned $4.25.

He was next found rafting logs on the river, working in a saw mill and on a farm. At the age of 17, he began studying law, devoting his evenings to the perusal of the few books he could buy. Two years later, however, the war broke out and he enlisted, at the age of 19. He served in the Seventy-eighth New York Infantry from December, 1861, to January, 1864, when he was honorably discharged, owing to illness contracted in the service. He re-enlisted in June, 1864, when his health had in a measure returned, and he continued in the service until the war closed. He was wounded at Antietam and was in at the surrender of Lee at Appomattox. He went into the war a private and came out a brevet major. After the war he resumed the study of law and in 1867 came to Michigan, settling in Oceana county, where he completed his studies and the practice of law.

For many years, he was a leading member of the bar of Oceana county, and although the county was overwhelmingly Republican, he was elected prosecuting attorney on the Democratic ticket. A brave soldier, he made a good servant of the people and the records show him to have been one of the best officials the county ever had. He came to Grand Rapids six years ago and is known as one of the most vigorous and successful practitioners at the bar and a thoroughly upright and respected citizen.

Held in the highest regard by his old comrades in the army, he is an enthusiastic and earnest member of the Grand Army of the Republic, and he was elected Department Commander of Michigan in 1888. He is now a member of the board of managers of the Michigan Soldiers' Home, and the gallant boys in blue have in him a friend who never fails them.

EDMUND B. DIKEMAN.

The Democrats have placed a wonderfully strong ticket in nomination this year. Their list of candidates for county offices is more than creditable.

The head of the ticket, ex-Mayor E. B. Dikeman, though not often a candidate, has a marvelous political record in the city of Grand Rapids. The first time he ran for office was in 1882 and he fooled all his opponents by getting elected by a majority of 1727. Throughout his official career he gave careful and intelligent attention to his duties.

More than satisfied Mr. Dikeman retired as mayor at the end of the first year, but in 1886 his party turned to him again and in spite of the adverse conditions elected him by a majority of nearly 800. His second administration as Mayor gave such perfect satisfaction that in the following spring a renomination was forced upon him and he was elected by 1688 majority. With this term Mr. Dikeman's candidacy ceased, as he determined that his private affairs should not be interfered with by office holding.

This fall, however, the name of ex-Mayor Dikeman was suggested as a possible candidate for sheriff, and before a week had washed the farthest shores of the county, and Mr. Dikeman was unanimously nominated.

Edmund B. Dikeman's entire life is a part of the history of Grand Rapids. He was born on Monroe street in 1843, and with the exception of three years when he was bravely battling for the preservation of the National Union, has always lived in Grand Rapids, and has contributed more than his share to the advancement of the city. His friends are particularly proud of the military record made by the boy of 20, being honorably mustered out after serving three years.

Union Veterans' Union. The annual encampment of the Union Veterans' Union of Michigan met in Grand Army hall at Hillsdale. The report of the adjutant shows 48 commands on the roll of the department, and a slow but steady increase in membership. At the evening grand camp fire was held. The U. V. U. elected the following officers: Department commander, J. N. Long, Grand Rapids; adjutant, C. H. Mackin, Jackson; chaplain, C. R. Davis, Camden.

Murdered for His Wages. Charles Engstrom's body was found under the wood trestle at the police mine at Iron Mountain with his skull crushed. It is the opinion of the chaplain that he was murdered. Engstrom was bridge tender for the Chicago & North Western at the Marquette and received his pay that day.

MICHIGAN HAPPENINGS. Bread sells for 2 cents a loaf in Lansing. Lucien Jacobs was killed by a falling tree at Ewen.

There are seven girls in the law department at Ann Arbor. Workmen south of Hanover under the main of culvert, eight feet from tip to tip.

The seventh grade in the first ward school at Coldwater is closed on account of diphtheria epidemic.

A Pole originally assaulted the nine-year-old daughter of Frank Smith at Gaylord and killed 11 others who were entombed.

The accident was caused by the sand stone capping which, overturning in the room, came with sufficient force to crush the timbers without any warning. The settling commenced in an old room above the third level about 100 feet in height.

LATON.—The work of rescuing the 11 imprisoned miners was accomplished after 40 hours and they were hoisted to the surface without a mark. There were practically no sensational incidents in connection with the rescue. The men were imprisoned for over 40 hours but at no time did they consider themselves in danger or despair of rescue. The men were plentifully supplied with water and the air was pure and beyond missing a few meals, they suffered no inconvenience.

Ellis on Eryon Contracts. In response to a query from Jackson in regard to the legality of the contract recently made by Warden Chamberlain with the Eryon Cattle company, Attorney-General Ellis says that the contract concerning the prison contracts is manager as to how convicts shall be fed. The contract cannot be employed on contracts.

Tragedy at St. Louis. Tom Curtis is a farmer near St. Louis, notorious for the neglect of his family, and had been on prolonged detour for a week. His wife went to town and traced him to the rooms of a woman named Mrs. Hill. Getting the marshal to assist her, Mrs. Curtis armed with a club effected an entrance to the place, and it is alleged, have found Curtis in a compromising position with the Hill woman. He at once showed fight and snatched a stick from his wife's hand and with it knocked her down. He then turned upon Davidson with a heavy chair, threatening to brain him. The latter commanded him to surrender, but Curtis persisted in his efforts to club the officer, who opened fire and shot him through the lungs and in the side with probably fatal results.

New Scheme to Buy Units Here. Addie H. Holland, for six years past postmistress of North Grand Rapids, and her son Fred have been arrested for defrauding the government. Mrs. Holland would issue money orders for $50 to $100 payable at nearby towns. Her son would go to the towns and cash the orders, taking the money to the North Grand Rapids office, which not only gave Mrs. Holland the commission but increased the business of that office so that her salary was raised. The Grand Haven office alone cashed $1,800 in these orders since January.

The woman's accounts became mixed and a month ago she reported that the office had been burglarized and $100 in money and stamps taken. The son was arrested and confessed, but Mrs. Holland denies everything.

Fatally Injured Trying to Save His Home. Joseph Miner, of Grand Rapids, was probably fatally burned at a fire in his residence. The family was asleep when the fire occurred, but were awakened in time to escape. Miner went into the burning house intending to remove some of the furniture and was overcome by the smoke. He was rescued by one of the firemen. He was so seriously burned about the head and body that he will probably die.

Seattle Hotel Fire Caused by a Lamp Explosion—It Was a Fire Trap. Sixteen persons—10 men, three women and three children—were burned to death in the West Street Hotel at Seattle, Wash. The flames broke out suddenly and so fiercely that the occupants were taken by surprise and there was a wild panic and women jumping from the windows in all manner of attire. A sharp explosion was heard in the lobby by S. F. Butler, a son of the proprietor, and he says the fire undoubtedly originated from a kerosene lamp in the kitchen, which was located on the upper floor near the rear wall. The building was an ideal fire trap, being constructed of corrugated iron and timber with no inner brick partitions.

Chancellor Caprivi Resigns. Berlin: A great stir was caused by the receipt of a telegram from Cologne which stated that Chancellor von Caprivi had resigned. The emperor gave an audience to Caprivi and endeavored to induce him to withdraw his resignation, but the chancellor was obstinate and refused to do so, and his resignation was accepted while that of Eulenburg was not.

SIXTEEN BURNED TO DEATH.

Seattle Hotel Fire Caused by a Lamp Explosion—It Was a Fire Trap. Sixteen persons—10 men, three women and three children—were burned to death in the West Street Hotel at Seattle, Wash. The flames broke out suddenly and so fiercely that the occupants were taken by surprise and there was a wild panic and women jumping from the windows in all manner of attire. A sharp explosion was heard in the lobby by S. F. Butler, a son of the proprietor, and he says the fire undoubtedly originated from a kerosene lamp in the kitchen, which was located on the upper floor near the rear wall. The building was an ideal fire trap, being constructed of corrugated iron and timber with no inner brick partitions.

Chancellor Caprivi Resigns. Berlin: A great stir was caused by the receipt of a telegram from Cologne which stated that Chancellor von Caprivi had resigned. It is known that for some time past there has been considerable tension between the chancellor and Eulenburg, owing to the former's views in regard to the measures to be submitted to the Reichstag for the adoption of radical measures. The emperor gave an audience to Caprivi and endeavored to induce him to withdraw his resignation, but the chancellor was obstinate and refused to do so, and his resignation was accepted while that of Eulenburg was not.

Swelling in the Neck

Large knots of scrofula nature came on my wife's neck for four years. When she had taken two bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla, we could see the swelling was going down. Now the glands have assumed their natural color and she is as well as ever. Entirely Free from this trouble. Our children were afflicted with spots of scrofula every fall, but this season they have been taking Hood's Sarsaparilla and it has purified their blood, built them up, and they have been free from all tinea this winter.
