"No regrets!" Jim laughed. "You can ride, I know that. The men are all busy and I want you to ride over to Hemmings' place, it's about fifteen miles, and get the sheriff. He's over there now. Take him along with you and show him the place where Jordan ran past youyou know, on the highroad. We think he's got some of his rustlers there. Anyway, he's cleared out of this neighborhood, and I want Cutler—that's the sheriff—to know it. You know the locality where Jordan dodged. Mac'll give you a fast horse. Better go right away."

Sherwin was staring fixedly at the books in front of him. He said nothing, and, after a moment, Jim "I don't know the roads; I'll lose to finding the place—Hemmings', lean.
