ON BUYING AT HOME

There is a truism in this simple statement: the value of the home-town merchant depends upon two things, first, the quality and quantity of the merchandise he has for sale; second, the vigor and manner in which he tells his home-town folks about it.

People in these modern times of fast motion are apt to offer hard-pan to maintain continuous loyalty to their home-town merchants—especially if they live near large cities. The best way for any local merchant, whether he be in Birmingham or Lapeer, Midland, Lowell, Crystal Falls or Gladstone, to compete with larger centers of trade, is to forever and ever keep telling human beings in his community about his wares. While this statement, published in a newspaper that depends upon advertising for its chief revenue, may seem paradoxical, it is, nevertheless, the absolute truth!

Every time the local newspaper goes to press without the advertisements of some local business, that local business is cooperating with other advertisers in the common effort to keep local citizens buying "at home."

The individual store that contains everything in its particular line stands a good chance of getting and keeping its customers. The community of stores that offers the widest range of needed merchandise for its people stands the best chance of getting and keeping the trade of its community and adjacent areas.

Advertising is merely telling about a thing. Some businesses need to tell often and loudly; others may get along with softer voices; it depends upon the type of business together with its quality of management. A community of merchants that stocks its shelves with what people want and need, and then tells about it on every possible occasion.

"We are your past, present, or future customers," declare Mr. and Mrs. Community Resident, "and we are here to serve you, hand and glove, and to do so as attractively; do your best to price them reasonably; and also remember that in this busy world of today we, like yours, need to be told what and why to buy. Build up, by cooperative and collective action, the merchandising center of our town; bring everything possible within your establishments that you think we need. We know, deep down in our hearts, that you deserve our patronage; we know that you are part of our town, you support our local institutions, our children have learned to know you, too. We want to spend every possible penny right here at our merchant, and keep telling us though your advertising to do ours."—Birmingham Eccentric.

VANDENBERG IS NEEDED

THE FINAL battle for permanent retention of bank deposit insurance will be fought in the next session of Congress and Michigan needs Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg as its representative in this fight.

This statement came from former State Treasurer Howard C. Lawrence, while discussing the present law which provides safety for bank accounts of $5,000 or less.

"Senator Vandenberg not only wrote the amendment to the Glass-Steagall bill which puts the government's guarantee upon bank accounts," Mr. Lawrence said, "but he led the battle on the floor of the senate during passage of the amendment."

"In working for this wonderful piece of legislation, Senator Vandenberg was not thinking in terms of Republican or Democratic parties, but was thinking of the men and women in every state of the Union who wanted to see their savings in banks with the assurance that their money would be available when needed."

"Those who believe in bank deposit insurance will want its chief sponsor on the firing line when the battle to make this permanent is finally determined."

Senator Vandenberg is credited with securing the first protective tariff ever placed upon copper and he has been given the unanimous endorsement of all of the 21 railroad brotherhoods.

ALTER SALES TAX

SAYS FITZGERALD

THE NECESSITIES of life must be relieved of the burden of the sales tax. In discussing his ideas recently relative to necessary changes in our state government, Secretary of State Frank D. Fitzgerald, Republican candidate for Governor, forcefully brought out the inequalities of the sales tax.

"This law," he said, "should also be amended to do away with double taxation. Ingredients that enter into compounding or fabrication of an article should not be taxed if the finished article is called upon to pay tax. The necessities of life must be relieved from the payment of this tax. It adds too great a burden on living expenses and does not in any way measure the benefits received from government were the ability of the individual to contribute to its support."

Ionia Victorious After Five Years

For the first time in over four years the Lowell football team was made to bite the dust by a class B school. Up until last Saturday no class B school had defeated the Lowell aggregation since the 1929 season, and this record was broken because some local boy committed a foul. It was in the fourth quarter with Lowell leading 7-6 when Fenning had just completed an excellent run for what was supposed to be a first down on Ionia's 30-yard line that an official discovered some holding. This meant a 15-yard penalty from the spot at which the ball was put in play. Ionia received the punt on their own 30-yard line and Zander dashed un molested 70 yards down the field for a touch down. About seven Lowell boys were in tackling distance of Zander as he dashed down the field and not one succeeded in bringing him to earth. Lowell was penalized on several other occasions.

The Game

Lowell was completely outplayed, making but two first downs to nine for Ionia. Precision in tackling, blocking and execution of plays was lacking and the boys showed lack of pep and enthusiasm. Pinckney, and one or two others did noble work but the rest were off-form. During the first quarter when Lowell had failed to gain, Ionia succeeded in running up three first downs and was on Lowell's 35-yard line in a threatening position. On an attempted lateral pass Fenning intercepted the ball and dashed 65 yards for a touch down. Fenning passed to Christoff for the extra point.

The second period again saw Ionia threatening and Lowell rose to the occasion and stopped them from crossing.

During the third quarter Lowell was forced to kick, after fumbling the kick-off. Ionia stayed on its own 48 yard line and did not stop in advancing until Campbell dashed the last 25 yards for a touch down. They failed to gain the point and Lowell was still ahead, 7-6. Lowell elected to receive and fumbled the kick-off, the ball going to Ionia on Lowell's 35-yard line. Later in the quarter Lowell players seemed to click for the first time in spite of adequate blocking and the period ended with Lowell in possession of the ball on its own 45-yard line.

As the final period opened Lowell made another first down and was in Ionia's territory. At this point Fenning made what appeared to be another first down but what followed has been told in the opening paragraph.

Comments

There seemed to be a lack of coordination and Coach Avery promises to make several changes in the line-up.

The only commendable feature of the game as far as Lowell was concerned was the defense when Ionia threatened on three or four occasions within Lowell's 15-yard line.

If Lowell is to remain in the running for any title, the blocking, tackling, timing and enthusiasm will have to take a decided spurt for the better.

Lee Street Here Friday Night

Lowell has not been defeated by a class C team since 1929 and Coach Avery will leave no stone unturned in an effort to continue this remarkable record. Lee street will play here Friday night in a night game in what will be the first game in the county championship race. It is to be hoped that the boys will come out on top and that there will be a rejuvenation among the players.

CRUISING THE SEVEN SEAS IN U.S. SUBMARINE

ORIN STERKIN, JR. HOME ON A VISIT TALKS INTERESTINGLY OF HIS FOUR YEARS WITH UNCLE SAM'S NAVY

How would you like to go down in a submarine to a depth of 100 feet and remain there for twelve hours or more with the temperature up to 137 degrees? This has been a common experience for one Lowell boy.

Many and interesting are the stories told by Orin Sterkin, Jr., who returned to San Diego Tuesday to re-enlist in the United States Navy after spending his furlough here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Orin Sterkin, Sr.

Orin, who graduated from the Lowell high school with the class of 1928 and then took a post graduate course, had not visited home previous to this time since he enlisted in the navy four years ago. During these four years he visited many strange places and saw still stranger sights. The first two and a half years were spent on the "mother" or submarine auxiliary vessel. He was in Honolulu in 1929 at the time of the U. S. Naval Maneuvers.

The next great trip began immediately after his transfer to Submarine Division 12. They departed from San Diego in April of this year for Panamanian waters and the Caribbean Sea, and visited the West Indies, Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands, Cuba and numerous other islands. The submarine on which Orin was stationed, the "U. S. Bonieta," then left the rest of the fleet and returned to Panama where they stayed a week. The remainder of the fleet went on to New York but the "Bonieta" returned to San Diego where she remained three weeks before making the long trip to Alaskan waters. It took about two months to make the trip, the purpose of which was to survey the waters, making depths and testing the specific gravity of the waters because it is planned to hold the 1935 U. S. Naval Maneuvers there.

The expedition left Dutch Harbor, Alaska, for Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, and then to San Diego, California. They sailed for San Diego and arrived there Sept. 18, completing the triangle represented by Seattle, Dutch Harbor, Pearl Harbor and San Diego, a total of 21,000 miles, in five months on two submarine trips.

Life On a Submarine

In speaking of the crew of the "Bonieta" Orin stressed the necessity of cooperation on the part of all members. This is absolutely essential because carelessness or failure to do his duty on the part of one member of the crew might cost the lives of every person in the submarine. He stated that life on the ship is as a whole very pleasant. If anyone tries to cause disagreement he is transferred to another vessel because they are not allowed along well since the vessel is so small and everyone comes in such close contact with his fellow members of the crew.

Orin joined the navy at Detroit and was transferred to the Great Lakes Naval station in Chicago. He said that after the first three or four dives in a submarine he experienced a "very ordinary feeling." All newcomers are given a period of six months in which to learn the ship as a whole so that in case of an emergency they may be able to adjust themselves to any sort of a situation. During this time they have to write a log which must be submitted to a superior officer for grading. The physical examination is as rigid as that required for aviators, Orin declared.

Work on the eastern section of the new Main-st. bridge is nearing completion and it is now expected that by the first of November the street will be thrown open to traffic. Those familiar with bridge work say that the contractors are doing a first-class job. The King Milling Company and the village have joined in the improvement by constructing a new cement walk in front of the east mill on the level with the street. This will do away with the dip in the walk that formerly existed and is a real improvement.

For the past few weeks we have been commenting upon the beautiful bouquets of flowers that friends of The Ledger have sent down to brighten the office. This week we have a most unusual bouquet to report. Mrs. Sarah Purdy takes great pride in her bed of peppers which are growing in her garden at Alton and on Saturday she brought in a large stalk of one of the plants which had four enormous peppers on it. The plant originally had eight peppers but it became so heavy that Mrs. Purdy picked four of them. Each one was about six inches long and four inches in diameter and all were bright red, making a very colorful bouquet. Although she had only twelve plants, Mrs. Purdy has already picked over two bushels of the vegetables for her friends and neighbors.

Well, the World Series is over and perhaps people along Main-st. and along every other Main-st. in the country will now be able to settle down to the regular routine of daily life. The Detroit Tigers fought courageously to the championship of the American League, then in the World Series held their own evenly for six games with the St. Louis Cardinals, Champions of the National league. On the decisive seventh game of the series in Detroit on Tuesday the Tigers were obliged to submit to a 11-0 defeat at the hands of the Cards. Almost the entire Tiger pitching staff was used, but to no avail, while "Dizzy" Dean pitched a wonderful game for his team from start to finish. The four Cardinal victories were won by the Dean brothers on the mound. The last game of the series was probably the most sensational game ever played in a World Series contest. 17,000 Tiger fans in the left field bleacher going well-nigh mad when Joe Medwick of the Cardinals deliberately spiked the Tiger third baseman, Marvin Owen. Pandemonium was used for a quarter of an hour until Judge Kenesaw M. Landis, Czar of baseball, directed that Medwick should be ordered from the game. The Tigers lost the World's championship by a hair but they are a great bunch of fine gentlemanly sportsmen and will continue to have the loyal support of millions of baseball fans. Now for the next six weeks King Football will reign supreme, but nothing can take the place of baseball. It still remains the great American game.

Ad. Still Lives After 30 Years

In changing a linoleum in the living room of the home of Mrs. Newell Hand, two Lowell papers in good condition were taken from under the old linoleum, both dated April 1904, and in a small kitchen adjoining the living room papers were found dated 1922. They furnished some interesting reading of from 30 to 12 years ago. A few ads of our time still can be seen in our ledger of today. A W. Weekes, the store where the linoleum was bought is one. The ad said: "Go to Weekes for your linoleums if you want them to wear."

There were 343 contracts signed in Kent county, the corn benefit totaling $5,236 and hog benefits totaling $38,345. The payment which will be made in December will be $1 on hogs and 15 cents on corn; the final payment in February, $200 on hogs, and 15 cents on corn administration expenses.

Michigan farmers participating in the corn-hog reduction program this year will receive benefits aggregating $3,455,000, according to a statement by the State Corn-Hog Board of Review, which has just completed a check of all counties. This amount, less the local county administration expenses, will be distributed in three payments among the 24,000 producers who signed the final contracts.

Checks have already been distributed in the counties that forwarded their contracts during August and the first week in September. Although approximately one-half of the counties did not complete and ship their contracts until the last two weeks of the month, September 30 being the deadline for completion of the program.

The amount of corn contracted to the Government and taken out of production in Michigan was 77,125 acres with gross benefits of $1,725,000. The amount of acreage of market hogs under contract is 714,000 which signers agreed to reduce by one-fourth or 178,500 head, in 1934. The gross benefits, which amount to $500 per head for the three-year period, total $374,250. The net total $2,677,600. Figures are not yet available on the amount of local expenses involved in conducting the program which are to be deducted from the gross benefits, but it is expected that they will not vary greatly from an average of five per cent of the benefits paid.

Seventy-two of the eighty-three counties in the State participated in the program. Four counties, Dickinson, Houghton, Oscoda and Roscommon contributed no contracts. The greatest number was 1631 in Lenawee County while Monroe, Huron, Branch, Hillsdale and Gratiot submitted more than one thousand each.

Ad. Still Lives After 30 Years

In changing a linoleum in the living room of the home of Mrs. Newell Hand, two Lowell papers in good condition were taken from under the old linoleum, both dated April 1904, and in a small kitchen adjoining the living room papers were found dated 1922. They furnished some interesting reading of from 30 to 12 years ago. A few ads of our time still can be seen in our ledger of today. A W. Weekes, the store where the linoleum was bought is one. The ad said: "Go to Weekes for your linoleums if you want them to wear."

Well, the World Series is over and perhaps people along Main-st. and along every other Main-st. in the country will now be able to settle down to the regular routine of daily life. The Detroit Tigers fought courageously to the championship of the American League, then in the World Series held their own evenly for six games with the St. Louis Cardinals, Champions of the National league. On the decisive seventh game of the series in Detroit on Tuesday the Tigers were obliged to submit to a 11-0 defeat at the hands of the Cards. Almost the entire Tiger pitching staff was used, but to no avail, while "Dizzy" Dean pitched a wonderful game for his team from start to finish. The four Cardinal victories were won by the Dean brothers on the mound. The last game of the series was probably the most sensational game ever played in a World Series contest. 17,000 Tiger fans in the left field bleacher going well-nigh mad when Joe Medwick of the Cardinals deliberately spiked the Tiger third baseman, Marvin Owen. Pandemonium was used for a quarter of an hour until Judge Kenesaw M. Landis, Czar of baseball, directed that Medwick should be ordered from the game. The Tigers lost the World's championship by a hair but they are a great bunch of fine gentlemanly sportsmen and will continue to have the loyal support of millions of baseball fans. Now for the next six weeks King Football will reign supreme, but nothing can take the place of baseball. It still remains the great American game.

UNITED STATES SENATOR ARTHUR H. VANDENBERG

Under this caption, Mr. Vandenberg, editor of the Kalamazoo Vegetable Parchment Co. house organ known as KVP, has this to say upon the subject of toll and leisure:

THE HIGHWAY PERIL

If a city of 30,000 souls—say, St. Paul, or Asheville, N. C.—were to have a highway, it would be a strange new pestilence that left not one person living, mankind having been shocked. Brain cells in countless heads would be agitated by the thought of a highway.

TASTY GOOD THINGS

CHILDREN like the taffy apples so well they will not prepare some at home.

Tasty Good Things
To two cups of sugar add one cup of condensed milk, one cup of corn syrup, mix and boil slowly, stirring constantly until a hard ball is formed when dropped into cold water. Remove from the fire and add two teaspoons of vanilla. Set the syrup into a pan of hot water and dip the apples which are pierced with wooden skewers—do once or twice, necessary—into a buttered baking sheet, roll in coconut or chopped nuts.

English Tea Muffins.
Sixteen cups of flour, three teaspoons of baking powder, one cup of milk, one cup of sugar, one cup of soda, add one cup of Graham flour, one-third of a cup of brown sugar, two eggs, two tablespoons of milk and one cup of sour cream. Mix well and divide into two packages of dates sliced. Bake in well-greased muffin pans in a hot oven. This recipe makes eighteen small muffins.

If you are out of pastry flour add two tablespoons of corn starch to make a full cup with ordinary bread flour.

Garden Butter.
Take two tablespoons each of chopped parsley and celery, two tablespoons of chopped water-cress and one teaspoon of chopped radishes. A bit of the vinegar may be used if the leaves cannot be obtained. Place in a chopping bowl with two hard cooked egg yolks, a tablespoonful each of chopped pickle and capers. Remove and press through a colander, add one half cup of butter, beat sharply with a wooden spoon for five minutes. Place in a jar in a cool place.

Orange Ambrage.
Slice oranges and arrange in overlapping slices, sprinkle with sugar and coconut, serve in glass dishes.

PETER DISCOVERS SOMETHING STARTLING

NOT far from the old orchard where Peter the thorn tree which Peter often passed. He never had paid any particular attention to it. One morning he stopped to rest under it. Happening to look up, he saw a most astonishing and startling sight. Fastened to the sharp thorns of one of the branches were three grasshoppers, a big moth, two big caterpillars, a lizard, a small mouse, and a young English sparrow.

Do you wonder that Peter thought he must be dreaming? He couldn't

Cruising The Seas

There were 86 men in the crew of the "Bonietta" and they were divided into three shifts, approximately 27 men in a duty section. No matter what the occasion, one duty section always must be on board, day and night. The quarters were comfortable, although Orin stated that they were quite cramped. Each man had his own steel bunk (the old-fashioned swinging hammocks have been discarded) and a locker for his clothing. Orin, who is a wireless operator, said that his main job was to take soundings with a delicate mechanism made especially for that purpose. There were only four wireless operators on the submarine and one had to be on duty at all times. His work was one of the most important. It is necessary for a wireless operator to have a thorough knowledge of navigation because in case of fog when the ship is on the surface, it is entirely up to the operator to get the bearings as to the location of the ship.

A Block Long

The "Bonietta" is an American made submarine, having been constructed in 1926 at Portsmouth, N. H. It was one of the first "V" type vessels made. ("V" is the name of the type of ship and does not indicate that the shape is that of a "V"). It is 34 1/2 feet long and has a beam of about 33 feet. Three-quarters of a submarine is beneath the surface of the water so an observer would see only the superstructure of a vessel lying in the water. The submarine can stay under water for approximately 72 hours. It is run on batteries while submerged and when it goes to the surface the batteries are charged by Diesel engines. The engines run on fuel oil and there are storage capacities for a maximum of 99,930 gallons of this oil. As there is ample food storage on the submarine, it could stay away from port for more than twelve days. The "Bonietta" has a maximum cruising radius of 10,000 miles.

Although the limit to which the submarine can "see" is from 55 to 60 feet, it is interesting to learn that she can "hear" for a wide range when submerged more than 60 feet. This is due to the fact that when deeper than 60 feet, the vessel "goes blind" because that is the periscope depth, but by means of delicate mechanism, noises made by other submarines or ships can be clearly heard at quite a distance.

In case of war, the submarines are prepared for all emergencies. Most of the secrets of the submarine are strictly confidential but Orin stated that all of the members of the crew are well acquainted with the use of escaping devices so, if at any time the submarines were unable to rise to the surface, the members of the crew would be able to leave the ship. There is a "lung" for every man aboard. Each ship has several escaping hatches, so arranged that the entire crew may escape. Each hatch is built with a series of compartments or escape locks. In case of emergency, groups of the crew enter the locks with safety "lungs." The lock is flooded and they open the outside door and escape. Then the water is pumped from the compartment and the process is repeated until all are out.

Something of the cost of the submarine can be imagined when it is revealed that the torpedoes used on the submarines cost from ten to twenty thousand dollars. They are about 21 feet in length and two and a half feet in diameter and are run by means of a small Diesel engine which burns fuel oil. As it would be too expensive to use a loaded torpedo during practice, they use a "dummy" or practice head, which contains water. In war time a "war head," containing torpedo explosive, would be used.

How Dangers Are Avoided

Life on a submarine is very interesting, but there are also dangers to be met. One of the greatest of these, Orin explained, is chlorine gas, which is formed by the salt water mixing with the batteries that run the ship. The danger of running into sunken ships or icebergs is not so great as one might think. The location of any object that is dangerous to navigation is immediately telegraphed to all ships and stations and coast guards are dispatched to destroy it.

Meets Classmate in Honolulu

The most pleasant surprise that Orin encountered on the trip occurred in Honolulu, where upon his arrival in August, he met Mrs. Frank Tracy, who is the former Edith Maloney. They had gone to school together and been neighbors for a great many years. She and her husband now live in Honolulu, where Mr. Tracy is the representative of the Burroughs Adding Machine Company. Friends at home had kept it as a surprise for Orin that Edith Tracy was in Honolulu, so imagine his surprise at meeting a former classmate, 5,000 miles from Lowell in the Hawaiian Islands!

YOU AWAY?

By ANNE CAMPBELL

YOU'VE gone away? Ah, no, you are still here in every room that treasures your sweet grace. I linger in your chair and feel you near. Your mirror seems to miss your absent face. The curtains meet the breeze, their creamy lace. Waving like phantom arms to bid you come. Your loved books wait in their accustomed place. Outside there is the town's familiar hum.

You've gone away? Ah, no, you could not go beyond my heart's pavilion. You are there with the bright lamp of friendliness aglow, sending its beams to light me up life's stair. You will be with me whether joy or care. Is my companion in the days to be. Absent or present, you are everywhere! You are away, perhaps, but not from me!

Girl Gives Valedictory From Bed in Hospital

Jane Anne Slaughter was valedictorian of the Class of 1934 when it was graduated from the Junior High School at Hollis, Okla. But when she delivered her valedictory address, she did so not from the stage of the high school auditorium but from a bed in a Dallas, Tex., hospital.

Almost a year previously, while attending a Century of Progress Exposition in Chicago, Miss Slaughter was struck by an automobile and suffered serious injury. After being in a Chicago hospital for some time, she was brought home to the hospital in Hollis, and later was taken to Dallas for treatment. A brilliant student, she continued her work even though in great pain, and when the year's grades for the senior class were averaged, her mark of 95 led them all.

She was voted valedictorian, and arrangements were made whereby, via long distance telephone and loud speakers, she was able to deliver the customary senior address, even though she could not see the crowd that packed the school auditorium to the doors.
