

FORTY-FIFTH YEAR

LOWELL, MICHIGAN, AUGUST 19, 1937

THE GREATEST ENTERPRISE

THE OTHER DAY we stood on the sidewalk watching some carpenters busy at building a new home.

Many people have never thought very much about a homelike life in a home. We help to build, pay for or maintain one. We think of home as a happy place.

That new home was using lumber. That meant that trees must be cut and timber sawed.

Monday and Friday mornings at the playground, sponsored by the Board of Trade, are still very popular with the tots and the director, W. H. Emery, has more nephews and nieces than you can shake a stick at.

John Phelps won the horseshoe tournament of last week by defeating the runner-up, Rex Collins, 21-18, in a closely contested match.

The swimming periods in the afternoon are heavily attended, with some grownups appearing and asking for instruction in swimming.

The director has worked out a series of steps of progress with the cooperation of the American Red Cross Society and is now awarding pins for beginners in swimming.

Four of the above have received their next award (swimmer's pin) and are now working on Junior life saving. These are: John Phelps, Kenneth Wingeier, Eugene Niles, Cecil Good, Simon Swartz, Rex Collins, Gordon Hill, Gordon Ridgway and Arnold Nelson.

On Saturday, August 21, the director will take five boys to Grand Rapids to represent Lowell and to participate in the Grand Rapids Press swimming tournament.

The following boys are going: Phillip Althen, entered in diving, 50 yard free style and 50 yard back stroke; Robert Yeiler, 100 yard free style, 50 yard free style and 50 yard breast stroke; William Alley, diving, 50 and 100 yard free style; Ray Dolan, diving, 50 yard free style and 50 yard back stroke; Gail Rozell, 50 and 100 yard free style.

All the boys are entered in the Junior boys division including all boys not 17 years of age by August 1.

Foreman's Chicks are leading the league in the second round of football with Staal's Lunch a close second. The Flying Dutchmen from Ada are 3rd with Ada Wildcats, Aristocrats and Runciman's Beans in close pursuit.

Staal's Lunch has challenged the champs to a 3-game series, winner best 2 out of 3 games. An all-star team from Ada is anxious to play Lowell all-star team as soon as the present league competition is finished.

Dr. D. H. Oatley, secretary of Lowell Board of Trade, announces that the Board has fixed the date of Thursday, Sept. 2, as the time for holding the annual picnic.

Improvements worthy of special mention should include one by Claude Staal, who has removed the dilapidated residence property, which for years stood on the lot adjoining his residence on the south and which he purchased a few months ago.

Glenn Webster is remodeling and modernizing the Sterken residence which he recently acquired. The improvements include new hardwood floors, new heating plant, etc.

Miss Dora Bangs and Miss Frances Sydman have returned from a motor trip, having taken the southern route to California and back.

What good is all this gold doing? "Why not take half of it, and pay off a sizable chunk of the government debt?" is the question many will ask. It doesn't seem as if use while hidden away in the government's great tomb-like vaults.

Reelect Officers, Make Stock Dividend

At the annual meeting of stockholders and directors of the Universal Metal Products Company, held at Saranac August 11, all officers were reelected as follows: President, C. H. Runciman; vice president, R. D. Hahn; secretary and sales manager, Frank M. Newell; treasurer, W. H. Young; general manager, John Arnhart.

The Board of Directors includes, in addition to the above named officers, the following: W. E. Denmore, Wesley Roth, F. F. Coons, E. C. Foreman and Paul Kellogg.

The Universal Metal Products Company now has completed two years of manufacturing operations and, due to its efficient management, has been meeting with good success. A seven per cent stock dividend was declared.

Crash "Drivers" Warned of Cost

With the tide of highway accidents in Michigan on the upgrade, with its accompanying rising toll of life, limb and property damage, attention is called to an act of the 1937 legislature which will make accidents more expensive than ever for the person responsible for them.

In 1933, the financial responsibility law was passed, barring from the roads any operator unable to satisfy a judgment of $300 or more in property damage, or for any amount in personal injury, as the result of an automobile accident.

Drivers are barred until they pay their judgments, and even after that, in order to regain the privilege of driving, a driver must prove his future financial responsibility, as the law directs. "Proof" must be in the form of the posting of the Secretary of State, of $11,000 in cash or negotiable securities, or the filing of a special form of liability insurance.

The 1937 legislature reduced the unsatisfied judgment provision from $300 to $150, which means it pointed out that more drivers than ever will probably become involved in the law.

The most interesting feature of the law's operation, however, is that the overwhelming number of persons brought under the law are those convicted of drunk driving, rather than those unable to meet damage judgments. Operators are barred from driving for three years following conviction of a number of motoring offenses specified in the financial responsibility law.

It is believed, however, that with the lowering of the amount which will involve drivers in the law's provisions, that lack of financial responsibility, rather than lack of sobriety, will eventually be a major cause for disbarment from highways.

To Observe Golden Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. William Blough, life long residents of Freepoot and vicinity, will celebrate their fiftieth wedding anniversary on Saturday, Aug. 28, at their home at Freepoot.

William Blough, son of Jesse and Magdalena Blough, was born Jan. 11, 1868, Susannah Weaver, daughter of Stephen and Elizabeth Weaver, was born March 28, 1869. The couple were married on August 28, 1887 and made their home on the farm in Campbell-twp. until 1914, when they moved to Freepoot.

The wedding anniversary of the Bloughs falls on the same date as the Weaver family reunion, the date of which was set a year ago and being a large and numerous family, it is now too late to change the date of the reunion and wedding anniversaries are not subject to change, so both events will be held on the same day. The reunion during the day at the Floyd Thompson home near Jennings school. The open house will be held from six to ten in the evening at the Blough home at Freepoot.

The Ledger office has received a consignment of the latest edition of State highway maps which are free to those interested as long as the supply lasts. The maps contain a vast amount of information regarding Michigan and are beautifully illustrated.

It can be said of the school of experience that a fellow never has to take his books home.

Some take off from the landing field; others simply fly off the handle.

Now, Pull Together For New Postoffice

A news dispatch from Washington, published in the press of the state August 16, stated that the House Appropriations Committee has listed buildings throughout the country for proposed construction under a $70,000,000 public building program.

Lowell was among the towns listed for a new $70,000 postoffice building as one of the recommended possibilities. Other towns in this vicinity on the possibility list for new post-offices include Sparta, Portland and Belding. A new postoffice building was erected at Rockford a couple of years ago, also in a number of other Michigan towns during the past year.

It is understood that the Government's public building program is to be carried out on an extensive scale in order to take up the unemployment slack and there is no doubt but that those towns showing active interest in the matter are most likely to be rewarded.

Let us pull together through our Board of Trade and otherwise in order to bring a new postoffice to Lowell.

Speaker Warns of Dangers Ahead

Harold Clayton of the firm of Moore and Clayton, Securities and Investments, of Grand Rapids, was the speaker at the regular Wednesday noon luncheon of the Lowell Rotary Club. He began his address by justifying the existence of investment and securities firms by stating that it is necessary to have some one to study the securities business just as any other business must have its experts to study the future and advise the business operators.

Mr. Clayton then explained his statements in a little more detail, citing instances when, by studying several years in advance of the present, economists could see that certain things were going to occur within a definite length of time. He then went into the present difficulties of the capital of the country, showing that now that all the frontiers are developed and gone, capital is to be more closely regulated according to new practices of the government.

Another difficulty pointed out by the speaker is the present attitude of labor to look at all money earned without physical labor as taken from their pockets. He declared that the clamor for high wages could easily be carried to a point where certain things are going to occur which would result in a disasterous inflation would issue if government spending in excess of income is not halted. Savings, he said, were still respected.

In the coming 1940 election, Mr. Clayton predicted that the lines of division will be great and the election may decide much of our future economic policy. The people of the United States, he said, are on another spending spree that makes the late 'twenties look like people were pikers; but someone will have to pay for this either our children or ourselves in a great money depreciation.

Mr. Clayton concluded by declaring that the question before the country is what will survive: The political control of the economic status of the land, or the control by the so-called economic royalists.

Proceeding Mr. Clayton's address, birthday felicitations were extended to C. H. Runciman and Frank J. McMahon, with E. C. Foreman acting as master of ceremonies. Secretary F. F. Coons gave interesting sketches of the life and achievements of Mr. Clayton and Mr. McMahon. Luncheon guests included William Denmore of Saranac, J. M. Townsend and son Julian of Hastings, Hon. William M. Smith of St. Johns, and Bruce McQueen, Glendon Swarthout and Carlton Runciman of Lowell.

Dale Aldrich, 15, Accidentally Killed

Dale Aldrich, 15-year-old son of Warren J. and Velma Aldrich of San Antonio, Tex., formerly of Bowen Center, was accidentally shot and killed August 4 by a boy companion as they were riding their horses to a ranch to spend the week with friends.

The boys had spent the night in a camp about thirty miles from home and, on resuming their journey the next morning, were shooting at targets as they rode along, with a .22 calibre rifle. As the boy took aim and fired, his horse jumped and the bullet struck Dale in the heart. He said, "Bill, you've shot me," and fell from the saddle dead.

Funeral services were held at the Porter Loring Chapel at 4:00 p. m. on Friday with burial in Rose Lawn cemetery. The young man was buried in a casket of "empty saddles." Over a hundred floral pieces gave mute evidence of the esteem in which Dale was held by his many friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard H. Aldrich of El Monte, Calif., formerly of Bowen-twp., attended the services. Dale is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Warren J. Aldrich, and one brother, Earle. They have the heartfelt sympathy of their friends here.

SCHOOL OPENS SEPTEMBER: Lowell schools will open for the fall term on Tuesday, Sept. 7, the day after Labor Day.

Gives History Of Conservation In Michigan

Aim Is to Save State Resources

Wayland Osgood, secretary of the Department of Conservation, gave a talk before Lowell Rotary Club recently which we promised to pass along to our readers. His talk portrayed in an interesting manner the work of his department and the history of the Conservation program. Below is one of two or more installments to appear in the Ledger.

"Any discussion of Michigan's conservation program must necessarily be involved. Our natural resources are so numerous and diversified; the problems involved in their conservation so intricate and far reaching; the policies and programs pursued in their wise use so subject to frequent and progressive changes, that I can only mention them in a very general way.

"Michigan's conservative program is a century old this year. It was in 1837 that our first legislature passed the first conservation law, establishing the Geology Survey. It was felt by those early legislators that this survey, within an eight year period, could completely obtain and present all of the information necessary about our natural resources. The Survey is still operating, on a more comprehensive scale than ever, and we are still far from our goal. For Michigan, with its ancient geological history, its great lakes, thousands of inland lakes, miles of streams; its fertile agriculture areas; its thousands of square miles of sand plains; its peculiar formations that are producing oil, gas, coal, salt, copper, iron, and a score of other valuable minerals probably offer a greater diversification of natural resources than any other sovereign unit in the United States.

"As this state progressed in its growth; as the lumbering industry grew and flourished; as manufacturing plants sprung up on the banks of lakes and rivers; as cities grew and farming expanded—the problem of conservation grew apace. We saw our forests go and fires create blackened wastes of what was left. Lakes and rivers began to reek with pollution from mills and factories and cities. Unrestricted were resulting in the rapid destruction of our wild life and the grayling and passenger pigeon disappeared entirely before the lead was stopped. Northern communities were striving valiantly but unsuccessfully to induce immigrants to thrive on cut over and burned over lands never meant for agriculture—for the plow did not follow the axe.

"And our conservation program began. In a small and futile way at the beginning, of course. But various state agencies were set up, each with its particular function. There was a state fish commission which established a few hatcheries to replenish the fast disappearing water life. A Public Domain Commission was organized to administer the ever increasing acres of denuded land reverting to the state through tax delinquency. A game and fire warden was appointed, given a few dollars and told to stop forest fires and stop poaching.

"In 1921 all of this heterogeneous array of officials, commissions and agencies were welded into a single department, now the department of conservation. To tell you as briefly as possible what Michigan is doing to preserve its natural resources, I can best do so by reciting briefly and sketchily the functions and operations of the various divisions of this department.

"The department operates under what is comparable to a board of directors in a private industry, a commission of seven members. Commissioners are appointed for terms of six years and their terms are staggered so that no one may appoint a majority. The commission is non-salaried. It appoints a director, who is the executive head of the department, and elects a secretary.

"This week's funniest happening in Main-st. occurred last Monday morning. Ye scribbled and a good friend had just passed the old post office building when suddenly our friend let forth a vigorous sneeze which was followed by a noisy clatter of something striking the sidewalk.

"What was that?" we asked. "My false teeth," was the answer. "Trying to be sympathetic, we said, 'Well, that's too bad, but it's fortunate they didn't go to the other way and lodge in your throat.' "Yes, that's true," was the rejoinder, "but the loss wasn't much. You see it was my very good set and they didn't fit very good. I still have a Sunday set at home and they're K."

Local Tire Dealer Wins Distinction

An unusual distinction has just been won by William Heim, representative of The B. F. Goodrich Company in Lowell, it is announced.

Competing in a national sales contest of the Goodrich company, in which more than 25,000 dealers took part, the local representative of the company was among the leading winners.

For this distinction, the company has presented its representative here a valuable prize, and as an added distinction has awarded Mr. Heim, the honorary title of "colonel," and a lapel button to designate this rank in the organization.

This honor was won by the Goodrich representative here through his standing in the recent "Wreath-and-Gar" contest conducted by the company all over the country.

The theme of this campaign was war on unsafe tires on the highways. Owners were being placed under the gun and being pined new and safe tires on their cars, as a result of the campaign against death, injuries and property damage on the highways.

Along Main St.

The Hastings Banner says that a large number of Hastings people saw the Lowell Showboat and adds that those who did not see it now wished that they had.

Now that the Lowell Showboat has become an established institution and its sight on Lafayette-st. a permanent one, the Ledger respectfully suggests that the name Lafayette-st. be officially changed to "Showboat Street."

Leo Davenport, motion picture operator at the Strand Theatre, was taken to Blodgett hospital on Monday afternoon suffering from an attack of appendicitis. He was operated upon early that evening and reports are to the effect that he is coming along nicely.

Everybody should plan to attend the Kent County 4-H Club Fair which will be held in Lowell next week Wednesday and Thursday. These boys and girls are doing the kind of work that makes useful citizens. Give them your moral support by attending the fair.

"It's a lie," says Frank McMahon, referring to the old saying that "a barking dog won't bite." Mr. McMahon learned this from experience Tuesday morning when a dog, chained to the gas station one mile west of Lowell, bit him as he walked to the station proprietor. The dog, he says, barked all the time he was at the station.

The State Mutual Fire Insurance Company of Michigan, of which W. V. Burras of Lowell is president, continues to make phenomenal gains in new policies issued and insurance written. In the month of July just passed the State Mutual broke all records for a single month's business by issuing 263 new policies for insurance amounting to $1,371,075.

Miss Annette Dekker of Ada escaped personal injury when for some reason or other she apparently lost control of her car and crashed into the lamp post at the corner of Main and Broadway about six o'clock Monday evening. The damage to the car was slight, but Supt. F. J. McMahon estimates damage to the lamp post will run over a hundred dollars. It is reported that Miss Dekker lays the cause of the accident to a tire going flat.

A story is going around to the effect that a Lowell business man took his wife to Detroit to see a game between the Tigers and the White Sox. She knew nothing about the game, but during the course of the game became interested and began asking questions. Finally she inquired: "Why do they always take the pitcher his sweater when he gets to first base?" "To keep him from catching cold," explained her husband. "Oh," said the wife, "it's colder on first base?"

Mrs. Elsie Racine, well-known proprietress of the Racine Restaurant, declares that people are again eating more, which is taken to indicate that the times are really better. "When the depression started five or six years ago," says Mrs. Racine, "it was immediately noticeable that the traveling public and others began to order lunches instead of regular meals as had been their custom. And now that the times are growing better, customers are again asking for full meals with pie and other trifles. All of which will no doubt encourage our farmer friends to grow more and better crops.

The fifth edition of the Michigan Police Telephone Directory, published as an aid to law enforcement officers in their work on crime, is being distributed to local, county, state and federal authorities throughout Michigan by the Michigan Bell Telephone Company, W. HOW THE MIND INFLUENCES THE BODY Do you know that bad mental habits may cause stomach trouble, arthritis and heart disease? An article discussing these startling effects—and showing that faith can help in stopping the growth of cancer and in curing a rattlesnake bite, is one of many fascinating features in The American Weekly with the August 22 issue of the Detroit Sunday Times.

Negotiations have been under way this week for the transfer of ownership of the W. E. Hall Cream Station and Implement Store to John Fahrni. Inventory of the stock has been about completed and Mr. Fahrni probably will be in full charge within a few days. Mr. Fahrni has sold his milk trucking business, which he has operated for the past year and a half, to Roy Thompson.

Mrs. Hall has successfully carried on the business since the death of her husband last April, and Mr. Fahrni, who is well and favorably known in this community, will carry on the business with the same high standard he held under the Hall management.

Vidro Warns About Back Taxes

Final warning was given Saturday by County Treasurer Thomas Vidro that properties delinquent in tax payments for 1935 and prior years will be sold for taxes next May if not placed under the partial payment plan before Sept. 1. He said that taxes for 1937, 1933, 1934 and 1935 can be paid to the county treasurer without interest, but with a 2 per cent collection fee, if paid before Sept. 1, or 1933, 1934 and 1935 taxes can be placed on a 10-year moratorium plan, provided the 1936 taxes are paid in full and there are no delinquent installment due on 1932 and prior years taxes. By making the required payments savings can be made of 34 1/2 per cent on 1935 taxes, Vidro stated.

The 'Old Fishin' Hole' Yields A 5-Pounder Jesse Biggs of Detroit has been spending his vacation here with his parents and among other things he planned to do while home was to go back to the river near his home, roll over a few stones, gather some of the ever reliable sand crabs for bait, and try the old fishing hole again. Well, this old mama bass must have been waiting for the right guy to come along; but, as usual when Jesse ever got in trouble, a knowledge of two always brought one or more of his brothers running, so he tried the old trick and it worked. They said they really did have quite a time landing that bass safely which weighed 20 inches and weighed nearly five pounds. Jesse says, "O boy, ain't she a dandy!" LIPOID PNEUMONIA
By its inventiveness man is constantly creating new hazards for himself and his family. Here is one of them: Lipoid pneumonia. It seems that nature has not given our lungs to cope with all our modern conveniences and do not seem to be harmed by mineral oils that are used in so many of our modern conveniences. But the lungs cannot digest fat and cannot get rid of any kind of oil. Lipoid pneumonia, according to present knowledge, is chiefly a disease of young children. The disease arises after large doses of oil nose drops from well meaning relatives.

THERE used to be a salesman in every store and he would take much pains to please his customers. If they wanted advice, these salesmen were very busy to both with such questions. They thought it was up to the customer to figure it out for himself, and they wouldn't waste their valuable time looking into such questions, which they thought were usually foolish.

HITTING MAIN STREET
ONE of the big issues of the day is the seemingly strong growing up of the wall between the industrial and the agricultural. It is a question of the future of the farmer. The farmer is the one to whom people report when they have money to spend.

HIGH TIDE OF SUMMER
THERE is something wonderful about the summer. The fields are labored and brought forth to their utmost. Great waving areas of grain smile and gleam in the breeze. Heaps of colorful vegetables and fruits appear in the orchards and the gardens, and create pictures glowing with those produced by an artist.

WORK ON HAIL
THERE is a crop of around 4,000,000 bales of cotton in Texas, and that great state is in need of cotton pickers who are capable of doing a day's work, the cotton fields are calling them. In one town, at least, there are many who are notified to go into the cotton fields to go all over the land. A vast army of workers is being recruited and should find opportunity. Some will be the sun is too hot or their backs too weary.

Court-Savage

On Saturday, August 14, at 11 o'clock, Miss Hollice Mary Savage of Decatur, Mich. and Mr. Richard L. Court, son of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Court of Lowell, were united in marriage at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hollister H. Savage of Decatur.

The ceremony was read in the presence of about thirty-five guests by the Rev. Louis F. Cooper, retired pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Decatur. Preceding the ceremony, "I Love You Truly" by Bond and "O Promise Me" by DeKoven were sung by Mrs. Robert Eldridge of Kalamazoo accompanied by Miss Mary Taylor at the piano and Mrs. Wm. Grovier with the violin. Mrs. Grovier played softly throughout the ceremony.

Immediately following the closing strains of "O Promise Me", the bride party took their places before a double window banked with foliage and gladioli flanked by candles.

The bride wore white and carried a shower bouquet of Joanna Hill roses. She was attended by Miss Irene Dunn of Jackson, who was dressed in pink and carried pink roses and blue sweet peas. Dr. Maurice Court of Three Rivers, brother of the groom, served as best man.

Following the ceremony, a wedding breakfast was served, after which the bride and groom took their departure amid showers of rice and the best wishes of the wedding guests.

Mrs. Court is a graduate of the Decatur High School, and Mr. Court of Lowell High School. Both attended Western State Teachers College, receiving their degrees in 1936. Mrs. Court was a member of the Senate and Mr. Court was a member of Phi Sigma Rho and Tau Kappa Alpha and served as business manager of the Brown and Gold.

He is now employed in the personnel department of General Motors at Grand Rapids. Mrs. Court taught last year in the high school at Morley. They are at home to their friends at 453 Burton, S. E. Grand Rapids.

Out of town guests, aside from those already mentioned, were Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Court of Lowell, Mrs. Maurice Court of Three Rivers, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Savage of Elkhart, Ind., Mr. and Mrs. Paul Savage and the Misses Virginia Savage, Letitia Stevens and Mary Shimkus, all of Marcellus; Miss Julia Stevens of Macon, Georgia; Mr. and Mrs. Willis Gargett of Lansing, Robert Eldridge, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Kemp and Miss Louise Welch of Kalamazoo, Miss Louise Traphagen of Grand Rapids, Miss Mary Cunningham of Cassopolis and Russell Lang of Jackson.

The "Current Column" is designed to inform the readers of this newspaper of the many phases of electricity for use in everyday problems. Any question regarding proposed wiring installation, or with difficult problems will be cheerfully considered. Write The District Electrical Inspector, Room 5, Norris Bldg., Grand Rapids.

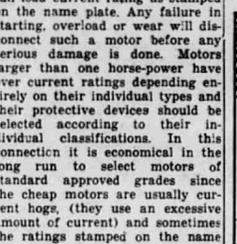

Over Current Protection For Motor Branch Circuits and Individual Motors

The average layman does not realize that a very large percentage of fires are caused directly by motor failures and which could have been prevented if proper over current protection had been installed and maintained. The difference in cost of installation is small compared to the cost of replacement of burned out motor wiring. Out considering the cost incident to any fire that may have resulted. Under ordinary conditions of operation it is practically impossible to burn out any motor or for that motor to reach an unsafe temperature when that motor is properly protected with the type of over current protective device for which it is designed. Thus we practically say that ninety-eight per cent of all failures of motor equipment can be avoided.

The type of wire used in the construction of motor windings is tested for a temperature of approximately 140 degrees Fahrenheit, and all approved protective devices are, when properly selected, designed to open the circuit and disconnect the motor before it has reached this temperature.

Fractional horse-power motors should have a protective device whose current rating is between 125 per cent and 140 per cent of the full load current rating as stamped on the name plate. Any failure in starting, overload or wear will disconnect such a motor before any serious damage is done. Motors larger than one horse-power have over current ratings depending entirely on their individual types and their protective devices should be selected according to their individual classifications. In this connection it is economical in the long run to select motors of standard approved grades since the cheap motors are usually current hogs, (they use an excessive amount of current) and sometimes the ratings stamped on the name plates are not accurate, hence the results and the protection of such motors is always uncertain.

MORTY

One consolation is that our town is good to the core. Some towns are like apples—they're jes as pretty as an apple, but when you bite into it you find a worm.

There is one thing about a dog—he doesn't pretend to be anything else.

Too many people dispose of all their problems by saying, "I'll take care of it next week."

Without machine power, life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness would have no satisfactory meaning in this modern age.

Saves Three Lives

WOODMERE, L. I. . . Pretty 19-year-old Margaret Murray, swam a mile through heavy seas at night to summon aid for three other members of a party who were clinging to an upset boat off shore.

Goat Sacrificed on Altar

In a dance hall in the East End of London recently a goat's throat was cut and its blood offered at the improvised altar during a Moslem feast of sacrifice. Five hundred Mohammedans from all parts of the British Empire crowded into the hall to celebrate the feast—their principal festival of the year. The dance floor had been covered with white linen cloth. In another part of the hall were long tables loaded with food ready for the banquet. The feasters brought their own food and their own cooks. No infidel hand was allowed to touch anything. The cooking utensils were huge burnished copper Indian cauldrons.

Bark-Cloth Making Revived

American school children in Hawaii are reviving an ancient Polynesian art, the making of tapa or bark-cloth. It has been practically a lost art in Hawaii, having died out since the Islands were annexed to the United States 38 years ago. With the present popularity of tapa made in Samoa, for golfing vests, hats bags and wall hangings, interest in its revival in Hawaii has been stimulated, and that revival has begun in the schools, where children are beating the bark of the paper-mulberry tree into cloth.

The Dude Ranches

No two dude ranches are exactly alike. Some are founded on the basis of still active ranches which are conducted as business enterprises in which the raising of livestock and grain crops is the primary business and that of the entertainment of visitors a secondary one. Some are partly one and partly the other; others have been developed from the beginning as guest ranches. Some are in the mountain areas, some on the plains, and others in deserts of the Southwest.

New Law Requires Accident Reports

Sheriff Blacklock and police officers of this county will now expect the active cooperation of owners and operators of garages and auto repair shops, in their making an immediate report to the nearest peace officer of any motor vehicle brought in to them, which shows evidence of having been involved in an accident, or having been struck by any bullet. Act 137, P. A. 1937, which requires this cooperation, is an amended part of Act 318, P. A. 1927, and carries the same penalties.

Under this new act, the garage owner or operator does not have to certify that the motor vehicle was in an accident, but that it shows evidence of having been in an accident.

These reports made immediately to sheriff or police officers, giving the requested information, will enable officers to better and more quickly locate stolen cars, and get information on accidents and witnesses.

This new act might also include the oil stations, tire, battery, auto parts, glass replacements, bumpers, paint and machine shops, who are now making replacements on cars that have been in an accident.
