LEDGER ENTRIES

Being a Collection of Various Topics of Local and General Interest

LABOR DAY

LABOR DAY, in the early story of this observance, had in it some thought of struggle and conflict. The idea was held that it was only by fighting their way up, that wage-earners had obtained anything like their fair share of the products of industry. Many people still say that unless labor is ready to fight for its rights, it will always get the small end of the bargain.

Meanwhile, labor and capital will both get along better if they learn to co-operate, and throw into the job of production the energies often spent in conflict. There must be a disposition on each side to be fair and reasonable.

To accomplish that will take human sympathy on one side and intelligence on the other. The employer needs to have a clear perception of the conditions under which his workers live. He would do well to figure out their average wages for a year, and ask how far that will go to keep a family in health and comfort, and whether it will give the children education and medical treatment. If an employer doesn't care whether his workers are clothed in rags and live in homes where they can't expect to be healthy, he need not be surprised if one day he finds his machines idle, and storm and tumult in the air.

The employe needs to have a better concept of business. He should realize that prices can't be sold unless their prices are such that the public is able to buy them, which means some limit on labor costs. He should also realize that the employe won't take all the cares, anxieties, and risks of business, which keep him lying awake many nights, while his workers are peacefully sleeping, unless he is well compensated for carrying this heavy burden.

Let us hope that wise thoughts and calm philosophy applied to these problems on Labor day, will help produce peace and reason in the industrial world.

THE NATION IN DANGER

THE TERRIBLE fighting around Shanghai, China, where many Americans live, has many elements of peril for our country. One of these fighting powers dropped a shell the other day between two big department stores, which killed 400 people and wounded 1000. If that had happened in former years, and Americans had been killed, a cry for war would have been heard.

Americans are said to have $150,000,000 worth of property in China. Many say that property should be protected, and that our armed forces should stand by all Americans thus in peril. Since our people spent $60,000,000,000 on a war, they are not keen for another.

It would seem better policy for all Americans to be warned to get out of fighting zones. They will have to take chances on their property, and send a bill for anything destroyed to the government that did it. It does not improve our chances for peace, to have our warships, detachments of soldiers, and private citizens, exposed to such perils.

COUNTING OUT-OF-WORKS

THE UNEMPLOYED people in this country are to be counted some time before April 1, according to an act just passed by congress. Some very fine points will have to be decided. Suppose some young man wants to be a newspaper editor or reporter, and can't get any such job. Suppose someone offers him a job as office boy, which he refuses. Is he one of the unemployed?

Or suppose some girls want a job as a business secretary and can't get it, but is offered a chance to do housework, which she declines. Is she unemployed? There probably are many people out of work who could get jobs if they were willing to take what is offered. The number of unemployed will depend considerably on how such cases are treated. How far should relief be extended to people of this type?

LISTENING AT GRASS ROOTS

PREDICTIONS are heard in Washington that the nation's lawmakers will get only a short vacation, and will be expected to return in November for a special session. Like the school pupils who did not get their arithmetic, they may be asked to stay after school and get an extra lesson.

The boys of congress can't be handled like a school class. They get their orders from the country grocery parlaments and the city hang-outs. They are now consulting these centers of authority. The way they act when they get back to Washington will depend on what they are now hearing with their ears close to the grass roots.

ENTHUSIASM NEEDED

THE THING that has made the progress of almost any advancing community, is a spirit of enthusiasm for the development of that community. In such a place you find a strong desire to do things beneficial to the city. People are looking for chances to push the home town ahead. If someone suggests some practical thing that can be done that will be of general benefit, it is received with hearty interest, people shout for it, and it is not difficult to enlist workers to carry out the project, and whatever money is necessary.

What a contrast that is to many cold towns, where it is almost impossible to stir public interest in such things! Even a small group of hopeful and enthusiastic people can make wonderful changes in a town in a few years.

A noted child specialist believes that babies should not wear shoes until they have learned to walk.

FORTY-FIFTH YEAR

Several Districts Have Arranged Transportation

Lowell District Pioneers in Plan

The Lowell Board of Education has rendered a service to some of the surrounding school districts by explaining the laws relating to the transportation of pupils to high school. For the fear of being misunderstood, the Board has not imposed an explanation of these laws upon the members of the boards of education in surrounding districts but had rendered such services whenever a request was made of them. It has been explained in some instances, school districts in the surrounding territory could, by closing one or more of the first eight grades, get funds from the state to pay for the transportation of the children in these grades and also for the students in the high school. Several districts have taken advantage of these laws and have contracted with the Lowell Board of Education for the transportation of the children.

It is illegal for the Board of Education to enter into contracts with parents of high school students. There are many more ramifications of the law and the Board of Education has been sending Mr. Gummer to the outlying districts to explain them whenever a request for such services has been made.

It is safe to say that the Lowell school district is a pioneer in this particular phase of transportation and in all probability many more rural districts will vote to come under the provisions of the law.

Picnic Tables Are Widely Used

An expansion of the state highway department's roadside development policy during the past year has resulted in the placing of 38 roadside picnic tables along state highways in Kent County this summer. This is an increase of 3 over the number available a year ago.

The state highway department has announced that more tourists than ever before are using the 1,500 roadside tables that have been placed throughout the state. This is a total increase of nearly 600 tables over last year. The tables are located at convenient points along the trunkline and are of various views or a particularly shady spot are available. At many of these spots, stoves and wells or springs are also provided.

"Counts taken at typical roadside picnic parks and letters we have received from tourists from all parts of the nation indicate that these extra services are deeply appreciated," said State Highway Commissioner Murray D. VanWagoner. "Registrations also show that hundreds of Michigan motorists are using these picnic facilities as well as tourists from outside the state."

Motorists Urged to Safeguard Children

School officials must give more attention to matters of safety for school children, Dr. Eugene B. Elliott, state superintendent of public instruction, announced in recommending that caution be exercised in connection with the opening of school this year. Following a conference with state safety officials, Dr. Elliott declared that the interests of more than 1,000,000 Michigan school children who are going back to their classes soon, that motorists be more cautious.

"Labor Day offers a serious problem with thousands of motorists returning from a holiday, always in a hurry to get back home and see that the children are prepared to go back to school the next day," Dr. Elliott declared. "Parents should exercise extreme caution in bringing their children back from vacation, and wherever possible they should return before Labor Day, thus reducing the likelihood of traffic accidents."

BANQUET FOR N. C.

It was just 43 years ago this next week that a young man school teacher with a lunch kit went to the Pleasant Hill school in Barry county as a teacher for his first term.

Last Sunday, at Caledonia Park those same boys and girls, only grown returning from a holiday, always in a hurry to get back home and see that the children are prepared to go back to school the next day," Dr. Elliott declared. "Parents should exercise extreme caution in bringing their children back from vacation, and wherever possible they should return before Labor Day, thus reducing the likelihood of traffic accidents."

Base Ball

The Fallasburg Cubs will play the Hopkins ball team at Bigelow Field, Grand Rapids, this Sunday afternoon at 1:30. This is the second round in the Western Michigan tournament.

On Monday afternoon (Labor Day) the Cubs and Smyrna will play at Lowell Recreation Park at 2:30.

High Honors for Two Lowell Students

Lowell people always take pride in the success of graduates of our high school and for that reason, the Ledger is pleased to quote from a letter received by Lee R. Mill, Lowell high school principal, from John C. Hoekje, Registrar of Western State Teachers College, Kalamazoo. Mr. Hoekje's letter says:

"It is with a feeling of great pleasure that I am writing to you on behalf of the Committee on Scholarship of this institution to advise you that the names of Emma Covert and Giles Sinclair appear on the High Scholarship List for the Spring Term, 1937. This is a signal honor, in view of the fact that the standard set for achieving this distinction are very high. We feel sure that you will be as happy, because of this achievement, as are the members of the Committee. It is needless to indicate that we are extremely glad to have students of this calibre associated with us."

Along Main St.

An attractive improvement has been made at the McQueen Motor Sales by painting the exterior of the building and redecorating the sales room and garage.

The F. Earle Haner furniture store now is located in the Negrono block, 209 E. Main-st., having moved the latter part of last week from the Rutherford block.

Remember the Board of Trade dinner meeting next week Wednesday evening at 6:45 o'clock at Richmond's Cafe. The meeting is of big importance to every business and professional man of Lowell.

Low Morse, who was stricken with an attack of appendicitis within a few hours after starting on a vacation trip ten days ago and who underwent an operation at Hamilton, Ont., hospital, was able to return home yesterday.

The straw hat season for men, which opened so gloriously on Decoration Day by common consent and custom continues to close this week. With the advent of Labor Day next Monday it will be considered bad form to appear in public wearing a "lid" made of straw.

As we go to press this (Thursday) afternoon, Lowell takes on the appearance of Goldsmith's "Deserted Village." It's the afternoon of the Board of Trade's third annual picnic and everybody is headed for Fallasburg Park where a good time will be had by all.

County Agent K. K. Vining reports that upwards of 4,000 persons attended the 4-H Club Fair held here last week Wednesday and Thursday. These fairs have grown in interest and usefulness each year succeeding year, and the people of Lowell are glad of the opportunity to encourage and foster the 4-H Club movement.

We hear a lot these days about air conditioning and in this connection the local Rotary Club has worked out a system all its own in their dining room at Richmond's. A large cake of ice is placed upon a grill-work resting on the top of an ordinary wash tub, back of which is placed an electric fan. Presto! And the temperature of the room is lowered by several degrees.

Here are some of the things over which the he-men of Main-st. are rejoicing this week: Charlie Gehring's leadership of the American League in batting. Rudy York's mounting record as a home run hitter, and Tommy Farr's moral victory in going the entire 15 rounds with the Brown Bomber, Joe Louis. The British heavyweight champion has won the admiration of American boxing fans.

"I am leaving Lowell with deep regret," said Coach Wendell H. Emery to the Ledger a few days ago. "This is the liveliest town I was ever in and the spirit of cooperation shown by Lowell people for everything that is a credit to the community is commendable." Mr. Emery, who has been high school coach here for the past two years, goes to a Grand Rapids school to serve in a similar capacity. He is a high grade young man.

Great Year Ahead For Lowell Schools

Adequate Equipment and Facilities For All Students

Everywhere legions of school children will be marching to school to the tune of school bells and this will be true also with the boys and girls in this community. The doors will be officially opened on Tuesday, Sept. 7, at 10 a. m. for children of all grades and, according to present indications, the initial enrollment will be much larger than ever before. The Board of Education has taken action to provide for any emergency and there will be adequate equipment and facilities for all.

The courses in shop, music, home economics, and commerce, which proved to be so popular last year, will be better than ever. Second year courses in shop and home economics will be offered for the first time and it is expected that enrollment will be large in these classes. The quarters for shop have been enlarged and more and larger classes will be accommodated. It is likely that an elementary course in printing will be added before the close of the school year.

School authorities have not lost sight of the fact that the high school must not only offer those subjects which will enable students to enter college and this phase of the program of studies has not been neglected. Over 30% of Lowell graduates enter higher institutions of learning and parents and children should attempt to decide as early as possible whether college is the ultimate goal and plan the course accordingly. On another page of this paper will be found a complete course of study and an explanation of the college entrance requirements. It would be of mutual help to students and their parents if incoming high school boys and girls and

All-Stars Too Much For Chesty Chicks

The All-Stars certainly made the feathers fly when they defeated Foreman's Challenge Monday evening at Recreation Park as they won a 7-2 in favor of the All-Stars, with no question about the final outcome except in the first and second innings when Carroll Potter, All-Star pitcher, threw his balls a little wild but after the 3rd inning he settled down and pitched an excellent game. Penning, an All-Star pitcher from Ada, who pitched the last two innings also did a fine job.

Potter helped win his own game by hitting a home run with two men on base. Each of the All-Stars got a hit off McMahon, pitcher for the Chicks.

The Foreman Chicks congratulated the All-Stars on their very fine game and the Chicks, smarting badly from this defeat, were quick to challenge the All-Stars to a return game. The two teams will play this week Friday evening at Lowell Recreation Park.

Named to High Post in Chicago School System

Robert I. White, who has been connected with the Chicago School system since 1922, was appointed assistant superintendent of the Chicago public schools Aug. 25. Mr. White, the son of Mrs. Emma A. White and the late Frank N. White, was born and raised in Lowell. Precious to his connection with the Chicago school system is superintendent of the public schools at Elgin, Ill.

How Unhappiness Drives People To Odd Hobbies

Professor Donald A. Laird, Colgate University psychologist, explains in The American Weekly, the great weekly magazine with the September 5 issue of The Detroit Sunday Times, why adults take up child-like pastimes, such as collecting fancy dolls, playing with tin soldiers and piling towers of matches on beer bottles.

Carroll Burch, New Coach Here, Comes With Fine Record

The Lowell Board of Education has engaged Carroll Burch of Sebawaing, Mich., to take over the coaching duties of Wendell Emery, who resigned to accept a position in the Grand Rapids School system. Mr. Burch is a native of Rockford, where he attended school with Ronald Finch and Lyle Bennett, two outstanding coaches of athletics. Mr. Burch participated in all sports at Rockford and he continued to be active in sports at Central State Teachers College, graduating from that institution in 1928. He excelled in football and baseball.

For the past 9 years Mr. Burch has been coaching all sports at Sebawaing and he has also been the principal of the high school for the past year. His record as a coach has been phenomenal. Sebawaing, a small class D school, was a member of the Tri-County League which was composed of 12 schools in Huron, Tuscola and Sanilac counties. Several of these were class C schools. Against this

Seen and Heard in The Tiger Dugout

Harold Jefferies of the Ledger staff saw the Detroit Tigers at close range at Navin Field, Detroit, last Saturday afternoon. He had the rare experience of mingling with the Bengals in their dugout and here is a pen picture of what he saw:

First person we noticed as we entered the dugout was Ty Tyson, former Tiger player and now commentator on the game. He was talking to Poffenberger, the Tiger pitcher for the day's game, asking him questions, it seems. Poffenberger, a young looking fellow with a big smile, was laughing over some big Tyson, who evidently told him a loud name of his choice. Tyson was heard and out of the dressing room into the dugout came Goose Goslin, hot after Fox because of some horseplay. . . . Marvin Owen appeared on the scene. He is thin and quiet, but the others, but managed to hand out a few choice remarks to members of the team who were sitting on the bench, all talking at once. . . . Rudy York, now the home run hero of baseball fans, coming in from his turn at batting practice amid the moving picture camera, was kidded good-naturedly about his "public." York is another of the young Tigers who has made good in a big way. He is heavy-set and swings the bat with a mighty wallop. . . . Mickey Cochrane, who had been warming up in field practice, was kidded good-naturedly and we asked for a pose, which he obligingly gave us. . . . G. Walker came in from the field laughing and talking to Laabs, who was complaining about having to break in a new glove because of some having appropriated his old one. . . . Charlie Gehring and Tommie Bridges were talking quietly at one end of the dugout, making no disturbance and taking no part in the horseplay of the others. . . . The most humorous of the incidents occurred in the dugout when a midget, called "Colossal," was introduced to the mighty Greenberg, who had just come in from batting practice. The sight of Greenberg, bending down from the waist in order to shake hands with the 36-inch midget, caused much merriment. . . . During the game, Rogell made an error allowing the Boston team to make two runs. Cochrane, who was at his regular post in the dugout, got up, mumbled under his breath, and stood in the dugout, steps looking at Rogell with a much disgusted expression. . . . Referring again to Rudy York, we agree with the observation of a fan that Rudy has more muscle in his eyebrows than some people have in their arms. Lefty Grove, of the Red Sox, blanked the Tigers 3-0.

Teaching Staff

The teaching staff this year numbers 22, with two new names appearing on the list. Mr. Carroll Burch will take over the duties as coach in Mr. Wendell Emery's place, and Miss June VanPurseum will teach the seventh grade, taking the place of her sister.

Smith, 8th grade and English; Miss Magdalen Niewonger, commercial; Miss Ellen O'Conner, home economics; W. J. Smith, agriculture; Raymond B. Avery, athletic director, coach basketball and track, mathematics and civics; Carroll Burch, coach for football and baseball; Adrian Zwemer, science; George Pappin, shop; Bruce Walter, music; Miss June VanPurseum, 7th grade and social science; Mrs. Hannah Reynolds, 6th grade; Miss Harriet Roselfs, 5th grade; and custom made by the school. Smith, 3rd grade; Miss Marion Bushnell, 1st grade; Miss Dora Bangs, kindergarten, art and music; Miss Anne Howard, south ward; and Mrs. Ray Avery, girls physical education.

Lots of Activity At Pickle Factory

Cars, trucks and wagons in long lines may be seen daily in front of the local branch of the Heinz Pickle factory, bearing large loads of contract pickles to the market. Manager Rudy Larsen of Grant and 100 local farmers under contract to the factory, making a large acreage than before.

Mr. Larsen also says that this is a successful season, with pickles of extra good quality appearing on the market. Because of the recent warm weather, there are more pickles than there were earlier in the season. Pickle prices are higher than usual this year.

Improvements in the factory

Improvements in the factory this year include the new machine sorter, which eliminates hand sorting by the grower, making it much simpler for him; and the building of three new tanks, making 22 in all. The local branch employs approximately twelve men.

Big Attractions At Ramona Park

He will feature Lila Lee, Princess Luana and other stars from Hollywood in person.

All of Europe Preparing for War

"The Fourth Object of Rotary: The establishment of international understanding, good-will, and peace by the association of business and professional men in a world fellowship devoted to the idea of Service," was the subject of an address delivered at the Wednesday noon meeting of Lowell Rotary Club by the newly-elected District Governor, Kim Sigler of Hastings. Mr. Sigler recently returned from a three months' stay in Europe, where he attended the International Rotary Convention at Nice and traveled 16,000 miles, observing conditions on the Continent.

Left-wing New Dealers, rejoicing

over the margin of Senator Hugo Black's confirmation as Supreme Court Justice, are rejoicing in the fact of him as a possible presidential candidate in 1940. He would have had slight chance before, they say, but now, through his activities on the bench, may be able to establish himself as a national figure.

High U. S. Treasury officials are on the sidelines waiting for what they think is going to be an administrative blow-up in the New Social Security System. They quietly advise that the Social Security Board is running into an impossible situation with a loss of a reduction in coin counterfeiting, however.

Counterfeiting is definitely on the decline. The amount of counterfeit notes turned over to the Secret Service by banks and other innocent takers—$487,648 in the 1937 fiscal year—was one-third less than in 1936. There was a decrease of 10 percent in coin counterfeiting, however.

Average American motorist,

the study made by the American Petroleum Industries Committee sets forth, pays $50 annually in automobile taxes, $30 of which are taxes on gasoline. And nearly a quarter of the average motorist's gas taxes now are diverted to other public purposes than the building and maintenance of highways, it is indicated.

To operate this session of Congress

for the last eight months has cost about $12,000,000 or $50,000 a day. Biggest item is that of salaries for members, secretaries, clerks, messengers and other personnel. It is expected that a final checkup will show the Congress printing bill, including printing of the Congressional Record, will be close to $2,500,000 for the session.

Application has been made by the local school authorities for appropriations to continue the National Youth Administration program in Lowell high school. The plan makes it possible for students to earn $6 a month for 9 months. The qualifications this year provide that such students must be doing good work in the school, must be 16 years of age or more, and must prove that they would be unable to enter or continue their high school education without the assistance of the funds. The set-up very definitely provides that the student applicants must fill out a blank providing that they are in need of assistance and these blanks are to be filed in the Lansing office.

William Green and Tom Girdler say, the star of the C. I. O. is in the descendant, because of the irresponsibility of its members, and of the organization itself. John L. Lewis says the charge cannot be proved that it is not dependable; and he denies that it is being run by Communists.

Mitchell F. Heppner, prime minister of Ontario, says he opposes construction of the seaway at present time for two reasons: Canada needs no more power, and the government-owned Canadian Pacific railroad, with which the seaway would compete, is losing the dominion money.

KIM SIGLER
District Rotary Governor

The thing which impressed him most, declared the speaker, was the manner in which military dominates the lives of the people in the countries he visited. Soldiers were everywhere, money was constantly being expended to keep the fighting machinery in readiness for war, and the possibility of a war in the near future seemed to be in the minds of everyone. Mr. Sigler said that he returned to America with a "feeling that international understanding is something that should be started in every little community in our land and that the small fellow should think in terms of international understanding rather than in terms of his own narrow local interests.

Ledger Cartoon Stirs Old Memories

Dear Ledger Editor: I was very much interested in the cartoon on the back page of last week's Ledger of the old-fashioned table set for thrashers. It brought back memories of years ago.

One time in particular, 18 years ago, stands out a little above the rest when we pulled into a place where I had never been before. Of course as meal time drew near there was always a wondering as to what we would have for dinner. When dinner time finally came the usual visit to the wash tub and the towels on the line was soon over, and the grand rush to the table. But in my rush I did not overlook the sweetest little old lady as mistress of ceremonies. Then when all were seated around a gorgeously supplied table, every head was bowed and the head of that household thanked God for the sunshine and rain, during the summer, that had made it possible for him to have a harvest, and also for the mercy and blessings that God alone can give. Then work began that immediately spoiled the looks of that table. When ever, stomach was nearly filled to capacity we were due for a surprise. A great big strawberry shortcake was brought in. A strawberry shortcake served in September is something, and when set before thrashers, it's something to be remembered a long time.

A good many Lowell folks know this old couple and will remember the man as the old gentleman, with long red whiskers, that used to peddle melons around town with a team and wagon. He later lived with his wife and grandson in the house opposite the canning factory.

Plight Marriage Vows In Garden of Flowers

MRS. ELVIN E. HOSKINS

A pretty wedding took place on Saturday, Aug. 28, at 6:30 p. m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. V. Burras of Lowell, when their daughter, Velma, became the bride of Elvin E. Hoskins, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Hoskins of Norris City, Ill. The ceremony was read in the presence of about 150 guests, by Rev. S. B. Wenger, in the garden before shrubbery banked with ferns and seasonal flowers. Royden Warner of Lowell played the wedding music.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, and was attended by her sister, Marguerite. Her cousins, Elizabeth Yeiter and Gracie Vosburg, were the flower girls. The groom was attended by his brother-in-law, Dr. Don D. Barker of Battle Creek.

The bride wore a gown of white lace over satin, princess style, with fingertip veil held in place with a wreath of gardenias. She carried a bouquet of white roses and pom-poms. Her attendant wore aqua net over tulle and carried a bouquet of sweet peas and gladioli.

The couple are taking a trip to Yellow Stone. They will make their home in Flint.

The bride was a graduate of Lowell high school in 1930 and attended Davenport-McLachlan Institute in Grand Rapids. She has been employed the past four years by an insurance company in Flint. The groom is a graduate of high school and General Motors Tech of Flint. Out of town guests were from Norris City, Ill., Battle Creek, Flint, Grand Rapids, Sheridan, Fenton, Ada, Kalamazoo, Hastings, Lansing, Caledonia and Belding.

Garden Lore Club

Lowell Garden Lore Club was entertained Tuesday, Aug. 24, at the home of Mrs. Arthur Rush, whose garden was lovely with dahlias, phlox, hibiscus and many other late summer flowers. Mrs. Curtis of Ionia, who was scheduled to speak on Dahlia Culture, was unable to present, but sent a collection of blooms including the large decorative, the medium cactus flowered, and the small collar ette dahlias—all were very beautiful.

Mrs. Joseph Brewer, always a welcome guest at Garden Lore meetings, spoke informally on various subjects and read for our entertainment the daily sketches for August from "The Gardener's Bed Book" by Richardson Wright.

Mrs. Rush and her assistants, Mrs. Mill and Mrs. Collar, served punch and cakes, after which some little time was spent in the garden, also in Mrs. Mill's garden directly across the way; this garden also had a wealth of bloom and had as a point of interest a rail fence the entire length of the garden.

On Sept. 8, the club will visit the Hastings Garden Club's Flower Show, leaving Lowell at one o'clock. Any members wishing a way to go, kindly call Mrs. E. C. Foreman, who will appreciate it if those also who can drive that day will call her.

F. E. James, Sec'y, pro tem.
