Norm Borgerson received a duna the other day for $17.34. Norm is worried. He told me so. You see the sender of the duna forgot to sign his name and Norm would like to know to whom he owes the money.

The four Pere Marquette tracks on south Hudson are being relaid by the local section crew, assisted by Belding and Greenville crews. Concrete will be used between the tracks and the street will be widened with a tarvia top dressing. The object of the improvement is to provide a smoother crossing for cars and trucks.

The wild fowl sanctuary, plainly visible from Main-st. bridge, is a never-ending object of interest to visitors. Wild mallards predominate and the Department of Conservation says of this fowl that the slow wing beat has a very short stroke, scarcely below the bust level. Males in full plumage are very distinctive. In both sexes the purplish blue speculum bordered with white stripes will identify. Under side of wings white. The "Donald Duck" quack of the female is well known.

Harvey Culler, owner of the building on W. Main now occupied by the Blanding Dairy, states that he plans to raze the building soon after it becomes vacated and erect in its place a business block having space for three stores. The razing of the building will mark the passing of one of Lowell's landmarks, having been erected in 1902 by Loveland & Force, produce dealers. L. P. Thomas & Company later conducted a produce business in this same location for several years.

In spite of some delay in the arrival of building materials, construction work on Lowell's new plants is moving along steadily. Work of laying the walls for the C. H. Runciman Food Processing Plant began the first of the week; the double walls for the Lee Lampkin cold storage plant have been laid and work on the new roof is ready to start; the foundation and concrete flooring for the new addition to the Newell Mfg. Co. is practically finished and work on laying the walls will begin as soon as material arrives. All of Lowell's manufacturing plants changed from war to peace production without the loss of a single hour. The Ledger believes that a mark for the country to shoot at.

A man soliciting funds for the war drive remarked the other day that "people are tired of giving." We wonder if that is so. Well, W. H. Berkey, able editor of the Cassopolis Vigilant has the following to say about being "tired of giving."

"If they don't give to the USO for the benefit of our millions of soldiers still in service it must be that they do not fully understand that this service to the boys is more necessary now than when they were actively engaged in war. If they think they really are tired of giving they should stop and think how tired the boys in the armed forces must be of what they are doing, how tired they are of being away from home, how tired they are of strange lands and strange faces, how tired of army life and army discipline, and how tired they are of waiting for a chance to come home. Please don't feel tired of giving until the boys are back home again."

Jokes, jests, jabs and jibes just by Jeff—So they are going to make clothes from the skin of fish! Well, from the amount of clothes some girls wear, small fry will do...Mystery story writers say they only make $2,000 a year, writing those popularly priced paperback thrillers. And after reading some of their efforts, we consider them over-paid...A fellow may object to being in the doghouse, he doesn't mind so much the chicken coop...It always amuses me to hear someone remark that the 'people haven't been heard from yet'. Since when!...The story is going around that a Lowell lady called Frank Coons by phone about 11:30 the other day and asked for Mrs. Coons, and it is reported that Frank replied, "She's home on the range."

Driving through the county the last month we couldn't help but notice the nice paint job on the building at the Jacob Spangenberg and Son farm in Sparta township. Also the Spangenberg's are improving their farm work shop. Leon Kitson and Sons, of Cannon and Grattan townships, are building a combine tool shed and brooder house. Same to be 30 feet wide and 150 feet long. Elmer Weller and Son, of Cannon township, have an "annex" to their barn to house 10 more head of dairy cattle. With it goes a new cement silo. Hugh Clark, of Sparta, has sold his cows and converted the cow barn into a poultry laying house. He has done a nice job. White Leghorns are the hens. Milo LeMunyon, in Solon township, is building an addition to his farm house. Lowell McKinney, at Peach Ridge, is just finishing a new home that has been under construction quite a while.

Did you know that—

—an average oak tree loses by evaporation each day about 187 gallons of water?
—rice is the principal food of more than a third of the entire population of the world?
—cattle lice cannot survive long on another animal, nor can lice found on chickens, hogs, or horses live on cattle?

Going through the recent report of the South Kent County Cow Testing Association we noted that Lyle Hunsberger, of Plainfield township, reported a pair of twin Purebred Guernsey cows 5 years old. Their production was good. One cow produced 1392

Undulant Fever Is On Increase, How Contracted

Nearly three times as many cases of undulant fever have been reported this year as last, according to the Michigan Department of Health. Between January 1 and September 30 there were 195 cases reported in 1945, as compared with 69 for the same period in 1944.

The following paragraphs are quoted from a new pamphlet which the Michigan Department of Health is publishing. "Undulant fever (Brucellosis) is not a new disease but it is receiving increasing attention as its prevalence is becoming more generally recognized. It is a disease of many forms, sometimes resembling typhoid fever, malaria, influenza, and even tuberculosis. It is a persistent disease often marked by apparent recoveries followed by relapses. People usually recover from undulant fever but it may take a discouragingly long time.

"Undulant fever is primarily a disease of animals, affecting cattle, goats, and hogs. In cattle it is known as Bang's disease or contagious abortion. Man gets undulant fever by using unpasteurized milk from infected animals and by handling the meat of such animals. Farmers, slaughter house employees and people who live in areas where pasteurized milk cannot be obtained are most apt to contract the disease, though anyone using unpasteurized milk or milk products such as butter, cheese and ice cream, made from unpasteurized milk, is in danger. It is spread from animals to man—not from person to person.

"Symptoms of undulant fever vary and are seldom clear cut and definite. There is usually weakness, a general feeling of uneasiness and a moderate rise in temperature. Headaches, aching joints and muscles, chills and fever and a loss of appetite are common symptoms. The patient will feel tired and depressed and 'sick all over'. In the acute stage of the disease the temperature may range from 100 degrees to 104 degrees, in an up and down, wavelike progress that gives the disease its name."

Camp Fire Program To Be Given Boost

All mothers and fathers of Campfire girls and all other townspeople who are interested in the Campfire program are invited to attend a meeting in the high school gymnasium at 7:45 p. m. Monday, Oct. 22. The speaker at this time will be Miss Helen McRae, who is national Campfire field worker for the Michigan district. She will discuss the value of work in Blue Bird groups, Campfire groups and Horizon clubs in the lives of girls of all ages. Her talk should be of special interest to the citizens of Lowell, for the Campfire program has only recently been organized in the community.

With Miss McRae will be Mrs. Ruth Dunbar DeWindt, Campfire executive in Grand Rapids.

Lowell Drops Close Game to Lee, 6 to 0

The local football team came out second best on a 6 to 0 verdict played at Recreation Park last Friday night under the lights. The only touchdown of the game was something in the nature of a gift, as Lowell was repeatedly guilty of off side and as a final gesture gave Lee a 1st down on the 8-yard line from where the Rebels punched it over for the game winning tally. The Lowell cause was placed in danger when a 4th down gamble failed and Lee took over in Lowell territory.

The local fans had something to cheer about when the Redbirds pushed to within inches of the goal line, only to lose the ball on downs as the first half ended.

Both teams put on offensive bursts during the 2nd half, which came to grief before pay dirt could be reached. This was Lowell's first conference defeat and Lee's second victory in Grand Valley play. Incidentally this game was the third consecutive game without a score for the locals.

Proceeding the game and between halves Lowell High School Band entertained the fans with some well executed marching maneuvers and good playing.

This week Saturday Coach Burch will take his team to Rockford to battle Bob Fanchett and Company. This is the coaches home town and he is eager to have his boys make a good showing.

The final home game of the season will be played November 2, when East Grand Rapids meets Lowell under the lights at Recreation Park.

You give only once a year to all the great causes combined in your Community War Fund, which in turn, supports all the 21 agencies of the National War Fund.

Right in your own community, there are troubles that have not ended. Family service, hospital and clinical services, visits by trained nurses, care for children right here in our own community, are still needed. These services are rendered by our own local agencies. They, too, need your help.

You give only once; you write only one check. This year, make it bigger than ever.

OPA News Digest

Sky Is Limit On Prices In Mexico
Mexico is a land without rationing and price control and plenty of tires, gasoline, automobiles, rentals, building materials and one day laundry service. But the people of Mexico really pay for this privilege. Tires sell for $110, cars for $6,000 and cigarettes for 40 cents per pack. The American Chamber of Commerce estimates that the cost of living for middle class Mexicans and Yankees living south of the border has jumped 386 percent during World War II and for the low income workers with more simple tastes living costs have increased 180 percent. After observing what happens without price control, Texas citizens say they'll go along with OPA which has held down the war time increase in their cost of living to less than 50 percent.

Apples Up Seven Cents A Bushel
The ceiling price for apples grown in Michigan has been increased seven cents a bushel for the month of October. The increase was granted because most recent crop reports indicate a further reduction in apple yields compared with earlier estimates of losses by damage from spring frost. The increase brings the October ceiling up to $3.92 a bushel, graded and packed, f.o.b. shipping point.

Longer Shirts for Men
War-time restrictions which required manufacturers to limit the length of shirts, eliminate pleats and take other fabric saving measures in styling shirts and pajamas have been lifted. Manufacturers prices on these "simplified" garments will be the same as they were in March 1942. Retail prices also will be kept at or close to 1942 prices.

Price Control Protects Farmers.
The prices of things farmers buy have not skyrocketed as they did in the last war, figures of the U. S. Department of Agriculture show. In spite of the fact that inflationary pressures have been stronger than during the first World War, between 1939 and August 1945, prices paid by farmers for commodities used in living and production advanced 49 percent, compared to an increase of 98 percent from 1914 to 1920.

Pvt. Rex Collins was one selected from a group of sixty to be one of the Honor Guards for the Presidential when he presented the Congressional medals.

Murray's Good Conduct medal and overseas service pin. Paul has been in the service over two years and overseas for 20 months.

One hundred sixty-five apiaries in Kent county were inspected by the State Department of Agriculture the past year. Of this number six were found to have disease in them. These apiaries contained 1674 colonies of which only 16 were diseased. This is less than 1% and is a good record.

Former Lowell Girl Weds Army Captain

Of interest to many local people is the marriage of Miss Alice V. Walker, daughter of Mrs. Bessie Walker of Saginaw to Captain James M. Rankin of that city. The wedding was solemnized Oct. 13, at St. John's Episcopal Church in the presence of approximately two hundred guests.

The bride, given in marriage by her cousin, Fred A. Gardner, wore a tailored gabardine suit in a pastel shade of green and a corsage of gardenias. The couple were attended by Miss Maxine Rutkowski, wearing a suit of royal purple and a corsage of white rose buds and chrysanthemums, and Richard J. Rankin, brother of the bride-groom.

The bride is a graduate of the class of 1941 of Lowell High School and the groom attended Bay City Junior College. Captain Rankin recently returned from thirty-five months' duty in the European theater of war. The couple will make their home at 914 Tuscola Street in Saginaw.

The joint Christmas committee of the Garden Lore Club and the Board of Trade met Monday evening at the City Hall and voted to purchase the Christmas Crech of life size figures as described in last week's Ledger.

Up and Down Kent County Roads

By K. K. Vining, Kent County Agricultural Agent

Agricultural Extension Service in Kent county is glad to know two more high schools are including agriculture in their courses this year. At Cedar Springs a regular Smith-Hughes program is in progress with John Coady as teacher. Coady is a farm boy from Maple Valley township Montcalm county. He has had considerable teaching experience.

At Kent City an agricultural course has been set up with Harold Engle as teacher. Engle comes from Traverse City with plenty of school experience. Because of lack of space the Kent City folks are not able to offer a Smith-Hughes course but have the same in mind as soon as possible. They are building a school farm shop back of the school. Engle will be the teacher.

Caledonia Smith-Hughes department have a new teacher in the person of William Van Drasek.

At Lowell Tony Rapas is getting well acquainted, having been on the job there since July.

This column has been neglecting its duties for not failing to voice our regrets at the departure of Arthur Guenther from the School Commissioner's office. Art who has been Lynn Clark's able assistant for several years, left recently to take a commercial job with Ginn and Company. We worked with Gunther on farm labor problems and rural school work. We are going to miss him.

And while speaking of people, we were glad to note in the daily press that Neal Lamoreaux, of Comstock Park, had been appointed as a member of the new Agricultural Commission to run the affairs of the State Department of Agriculture. Neal's dual purpose as a producer and distributor of milk should make him a good representative for the dairy interests in the state. He has been elected chairman of the commission.

A&P Buys Record Volume Of Michigan Peaches

Distribution of 242,644 bushels of the 1945 Michigan peach crop through A & P Food Stores in 19 states is announced by the food chain's divisional headquarters. This is the largest volume of Michigan peaches ever handled by the company during one season, according to a statement by Frank C. Knieiser, vice president of A & P's produce buying affiliate. It exceeds the previous high mark set in purchases last year by approximately 34,000 bushels.

The company was able to handle this record volume through achieving a wider distribution than heretofore, the announcement said, with peaches going to such distant points as New York, Baltimore, Tampa, Mobile, New Orleans, Des Moines, and Kansas City.

Among the 33 cities listed in the announcement as major centers of distribution were Toledo, where A & P stores sold 35,500 bushels; Detroit, 33,895; Grand Rapids, 25,200; Milwaukee, 23,314; Chicago, 22,267; New York, 21,780; Louisville, 16,324; Indianapolis, 11,831; and Cincinnati, 8,969.

Harvest Legume and Grass Seed is Urged

Due to the numerous inquiries received relative to the harvesting of legume and grass seeds, John McCabe, Chairman of the Kent County AAA Committee, again urges farmers to harvest clover seed and grass seed if at all possible. The Kent County AAA Committee fully realizes how seriously the farmers are handicapped by the unusual fall weather which makes the harvesting of any crops at this season of the year most difficult.

A payment of $3.50 per acre may be earned for harvesting alfalfa, red clover, and alsike clover as an approved practice under the 1945 AAA Farm Program. A poundage payment may also be earned on a clean seed basis when sold to a dealer before January 1, 1946. The poundage payment rate is 2 1/2 cents per pound for alfalfa and alsike seed and 3 1/2 cents per pound for red clover seed.

The harvesting of legumes and grass seeds is now regarded as a special conservation practice, payment for which may be earned over and above the regular soil building allowance established for the farm.

Farmers having harvested legume or grass seed as a conservation practice under the 1945 AAA Farm Program should report this practice at the time they make their report of performance to their Community Committeeman. According to the Chairman, the 1945 AAA Farm Program compliance work will get under way about November 1, in Kent county.

Find Vitamin A Relief For Colds, Skin Disorders

Certain investigators feel that colds, sinus trouble, sore throat, and abscesses in ears, mouth or salivary glands may result from insufficient vitamin A in the diet. Although it has not been conclusively demonstrated that vitamin A can prevent colds, it has been shown that it will shorten the duration of colds.

More prolonged deficiency of vitamin A results in dry scaly skin with plugs of horny material about hair follicles. Certain cases of dry scaly skin have been successfully treated by using vitamin A. This vitamin is also essential for proper formation and maintenance of tooth enamel and for successful reproduction.

There are animal and vegetable sources of vitamin A. These are cod liver and other fish liver oils, liver, milk and dairy products, and yellow and green leafy vegetables. The vitamin A from animal sources is somewhat better utilized than that from vegetables, and both should be included in the diet.

Strange Fish

The paddlefish is among the strangest of all fishes. It resembles a marine shark more than a fresh water fish. In fact, when it was first classified over a hundred years ago, it was incorrectly placed with the sharks. However, when more thoroughly studied it was found to be a primitive bony fish and not a shark. It is lead colored and has a smooth skin from which the scales have practically disappeared.

The paddlefish grows to well over 150 pounds. It is rarely ever taken on hook and line, but is usually caught by seining. The fish is excellent and is practically boneless, as the skeleton is cartilaginous. In some southern localities, this species is the most highly prized food fish. The eggs make excellent caviar and in many parts of the South constitute an important product of the commercial fisheries.

Equalize Heat

One of the most interesting new developments in the heating industry which will be available for post-war homes is the floor level radiant heating system. The system consists of a hollow metal baseboard which takes the place of the conventional wood baseboard. The unit is installed around the exposed walls of the house or other type of building to be heated. University engineers found that the low source of radiant heat in the unit produces a uniform feeling of comfort among the occupants of a room. Remarkably small differences in temperature were observed. With outdoor temperatures of approximately 30 degrees, a ceiling to floor temperature difference of about 1.5 degrees was obtained with the new type of baseboard radiation.

V Belts

"V" belts can be used satisfactorily on a combination of "V" and flat pulleys, provided certain precautions are observed. The flat or driven pulley should be at least three times the diameter of the "V" drive pulley, and that the distance between the pulley shafts be about equal to the diameter of the larger pulley. It is also well to have the face of the flat pulley perfectly straight instead of crowned, since otherwise the belts will tend to ride the high center. Although belt tension can be maintained by means of motor-frame adjusting screws, much more constant tension is secured by mounting the motor on a rocking or hinged support so that its weight is partially carried by the drive belt.

NOTICE—CORRESPONDENTS

Several news letters from Ledger correspondents were received too late to handle this week. The help situation is serious, affecting every newspaper in the country. For this reason we ask all correspondents to write only the important news and to please omit all neighborhood visiting items. Thank you. The Publisher.
