Home Town Joys

We have spoken of the satisfactions of home town life. The joys of home life are a very great part in it, and the constant happiness that comes to people from the enjoyment of their homes. The life of families is a wonderful pleasure, and people find constant delight in these household joys, and in the intimate companionship of the home.

It is a wonderful pleasure to live in a good town like Lowell, and share the life of the community and its advantages and the pleasures that it brings.

A reader wants to know what happened to the fellow who did a kind deed, and wouldn't take pay for his services?

It depends on the individual. One man is commended as being thrifty, when he doesn't spend, while another is called close-fisted and a tightwad, when he doesn't.

Garden Peninsula, Least Known Of State's Famed Peninsula's The Romance of Bill and Kate

By Gene Alleman, Sec'y.-Manager Michigan Press Association

GARDEN—Bill Bonifas got his start at Garden.

The Upper Peninsula lumberman, eight times a millionaire, arrived in the Garden peninsula penniless from Luxemburg. He was a six-footer, broad-shouldered, and in his early twenties. America was the promised land of opportunity, and the Upper Peninsula was one of its frontiers.

As a lumberjack he started to work cutting timber for Louis VanWinkle, a Dutchman who built a sawmill at Van's Harbor back in 1881. Lacking a team of horses, he carried logs out of the woods on his back. It was William Stellwagon, proprietor of a hardware store at Garden, who staked him to his first capital—$50 worth of needed tools and equipment. Stellwagon's son, Walter, runs a modern grocery at Garden.

Bonifas built his fortune in the Garden peninsula. Perhaps his greatest find was Kate Nolan, a beautiful Irish girl whom he met here at a lumberjack boarding house. Kate a waitress, became his wife. Bill never forgot Garden. And neither did Kate.

In some respects, as you behold the ghost town of Fayette, a few miles suth of Garden, here is a peninsula that Michigan forgot. Few tourists know about it. Travelers who venture on a good blacktop and gravel road to Garden, Fayette and Fairport usually view the abandoned village of Fayette in wonderment. Here are ten abandoned houses and a 47-window hotel, all located on a scenic promontory with a view of Lake Michigan and Snail Shell harbor nearby. Inhabitants total 11. Among them is Donald Cehren, navy veteran who runs the postoffice and builds boats during his spare time.

No sign tells the story of Fayette where good hardwood was burned to smelt iron ore, more than 75 years ago. You view the ruins of the deserted town and ask yourself: "What happened to bring all this about?"

Charles Olmstead, now 82, was a foreman for Bonifas at his camp nine miles north of Garden on the plains near Little Harbor. He related to us the history of the region. Charley helps out in a store and gas station of his son-in-law, Roy Winter, at Garden.

Because of the harbor and limestone at Fayette and the abundance of hardwood nearby, the Jackson Iron Company of Negaunee purchased 16,000 acres of trees for $15,000. That was in 1866. They bought land at Plumb's harbor, later called Snail Shell because of its shape, from Iram G. Squire; built limestone kilns through the peninsula to convert hardwood into charcoal; extended an arrow-gauge railroad to Fairport at the tip; and then constructed huge furnaces at Fayette to smelt the iron-ore, shipped from Escanaba, into pig iron for loading into sailing vessels bound for Cleveland.

It took eight days to char the hardwood in the kilns. Twenty-five bushels of charcoal were consumed in the furnaces to produce one ton of pig iron. The virgin hardwoods of the Garden peninsula were literally burned up!

Fayette was a company-owned town—houses, hotel, stores, church, dance hall and furnaces. The place was abandoned in 1889.

Bonifas' logging camp became the William Bonifas Company with three brothers—John, Jim and Isaac—as partners. When Bill left the peninsula in 1917, he threw a big party at the Garden town hall—champagne and all. Worth then about $500,000, Bill formed the William Bonifas Lumber Company at Escanaba.

Sawmills were operated at Marenisco and Lake Linden. Pulpwood operations were maintained all over the Upper Peninsula. By fortunate investments, Bonifas acquired large blocks of Kimberly-Clark and General Motors stocks. He was a rich man.

When Bill died several years ago he left a million dollars to build a new St. Joseph's church at Escanaba including a rectory, auditorium and gymnasium. Kate donated $150,000 for a new public school and convent in the village of Garden. When she died early this summer she left about $2,500,000 to Escanaba—new Catholic high school, public high school, city hall, court house, public office building and city recreational facilities.

This, the wealth from the woods at Garden and the Upper Peninsula has come back, in part, to the land in which Bill and Kate Bonifas got their start. Remember this when you visit the Garden peninsula, just west of Manistique.

Donkey Ball Game Here Next Tuesday

It will be up to the audience to decide which plays a better game of softball, the donkeys or their riders when Forrest Buck's City Slickers clash with Mike Hoover's Barnyard Slingers Tuesday night, September 21, at 8:17 p. m. sharp at Lowell Recreation Park.

The big bets, it is understood are favoring the four-legged players and one in particular, Gypsy Rose Lee, reputed to be able to strip the most tenacious rider from her back between home and first base.

This thrilling donkey softball game is being sponsored by the Clark-Ellis American Legion Post no 152, the proceeds going into the Community Memorial Building fund.

Catherine Byrne, 84 Respected Pioneer Will Be Missed by All

Catherine Doyle was born December 1, 1863, in Vergennes township, the daughter of Thomas and Mary A. Doyle. On April 10, 1883, she married John Byrne of Parnell. To this union were born nine children, two children and her husband preceding her in death.

She is survived by five sons, Ed, Tom, Serverny, Frank and Leo, all of Parnell; two daughters, Mrs. Edward Walsh of Grand Rapids and Mrs. Joseph Nugent of Parnell; 28 grandchildren and 30 great-grandchildren.

Boy Scouts to Hold Conference on Oct. 2 At Shawondossee

Boys who are "spark plugs" of Scout Troops will take part in conference at Scout Camp October 2.

"The two hundred scouts from Mecosta, Montcalm, Ionia, Barry and Kent counties who will gather at Camp Shawondossee for the all day training session of Patrol Leaders and other Scouts in key positions in Scout troops will be the scouts who are truly the "spark plugs" of various troops of the Council," Charles Hook, Jr., chairman of the committee on leadership training of the Grand Valley Council, Boy Scouts of America, said today.

Many of the green bar scouts—so called because their badge of office consists of green bars—will arrive with their Scoutmaster or other adult leaders Friday evening to take part in a fellowship campfire and "cracker barrel" discussion and evening snack. Others will arrive early Saturday morning.

"How can we make our patrols better units of operation?" is the theme of the conference. Discussion leaders will be chosen largely from Patrol Leaders themselves, with adults present in the background in advisory capacities.

Each troop is now in process of choosing its delegation of scouts and getting them lined up for the big event, and those scouts chosen for this training opportunity naturally feel pretty proud of their chance.

Assisting in the management of the Green Bar Conference will be Thomas Shelby, chairman of the leadership training committee of Kent District; C. C. Clark, chairman of the leadership training committee of Mecosta District; Flint Watt, chairman of leadership training committee of Ionia District; Jack K. Smith, chairman of leadership training committee of Wabasis District, and A. A. Reed, chairman of leadership training committee of Thornapple District.

Showboat Boosts Lowell Projects

School and Memorial Bldg. Each Voted $1,000 At B of T Meet

The members of the Lowell Showboat, Inc., voted Monday night in a joint meeting of the Board of Trade and the American Legion to appropriate $1,000 to the Board of Trade to give to the School Building Fund and $1,000 to the Legion Memorial Building.

The meeting was held at the Methodist church with dinner served by the Methodist Ladies, about seventy members of both organizations were in attendance.

Annual report of the secretary and treasurer of Showboat, Inc., showed that total expenses of this year's show were $24,887.47 with total receipts of only $22,556.29. The money given to the Board of Trade and the Legion comes from the reserve funds which total to date $6,286.00.

While Showboat receipts were about $1,000 higher than last year the expenses were much higher because of building a new boat and repainting all the permanent seats. The boat which is built of heavy cypress lumber is strong and built to last several years and can be considered a capital investment of over $6,000.

The Board of Trade also voted at this meeting to spread a written ballot among the contributing members on the giving of $1,000 from Board of Trade reserve funds to the American Legion Memorial Building. This will be mailed to these members soon.

Uncle Sam Forbids Giving News About Bingo, Raffles Etc.

Hardly a week goes by that someone doesn't ask us to use the words "bingo", "keno" or "raffle" in a story or advertisement for some function their church or organization is sponsoring.

Each time we must tell them that Uncle Sam's postal regulations forbid the mention of such words or any information or material for the games from passing through the United States mail.

Years ago the law was passed to curb lotteries that were conducted on a large scale commercially. Keeping information out of the mails was an effective way of curtailing such activities.

Now, however, with lotteries practically eliminated, the law is still used to prevent community, non-profit organizations from advertising a scheme to help their finances along.

We aren't surprised that explaining this to the average individual is usually a difficult task. He sees racing results in the city dailies along with handicappers' predictions and stories on election bets and the like.

He knows that the State of Michigan has put the stamp of approval on gambling at two race tracks and even takes a cut itself of the millions that the "house" is sure to keep each year.

He knows, too, that gambling joints run wild in some parts of the state . . . undercover, sure, and many under the guise of private clubs . . . but he knows they exist.

So when told nothing can be said about the games of his club, church or group are sponsoring in order to finance some worthwhile project he is justifiably confused. But that's the way the law reads. Authorities remind us of it two or three times a year and our hands are tied.

CONSTITUTION DAY

Our Constitution was not something dreamed over night, just an obscure government paper, a fleeting passion of men who desired publicity for themselves. It was on September 17, 1787, that the 39 founders, put their signatures to the document.

It was presented to the states for consideration, was ratified and went into effect March, 1789. The convention spent four months drawing the instrument, the colonies gave 18 months for study. Time in drawing, in referring, in study, in ratifying.

Such consideration proves it a work to represent the highest aspirations of the people. This charter of freedom is our defense against tyranny, bigotry, transgression. It regulates and formulates the rights of citizens. Time will but strengthen its principles for liberty.

YOU BE THE EDITOR

The editor of Kiplinger magazine, tells of seeing a list of expenditures of Americans, during 1946, and wrote an editorial. He threw the editorial in the wastebasket and simply published the list, letting the readers make their own comment. We pass it on to you:

Liquor—$9,500,000,000.

Automobiles—$7,627,000,000.

Education—$4,600,000,000.

Tobacco—$2,410,000,000.

Personal care (barbershop, beauty, toilet articles, etc.—$2,321,000,000.

Religious and welfare activities—$1,525,000,000.

HARVEST TIME

The ripening of the harvests of American crops is a wonderful event in American life. An untold amount of energy and mechanical skill and modern scientific study and inventiveness, and many more factors of enormous importance have gone into the creation of these products. They are a marvellous development of creative skill, to which a great section of the population have contributed. The world looks on with wonder at the results that have been achieved.

The results accomplished will be of great help in meeting the needs of the world, which so needs ample food supplies. Hungry people in many lands will be cheered by the news of American crops, and the food will be a great contribution to the restoration of normal life. Progress is being made in the battle against hunger.

American farmers have done a grand job in raising these food supplies, and have contributed enormously to the welfare and prosperity of the country and the world. All who have helped in this great job of food production are entitled to high praise.

POETS, TAKE HEED

Not as many of us read poetry, enjoy it, appreciate it, understand it, as we should. There are simple, sweet verses, that are comprehensible to the most educated man, that usually deal with love and flowers in bloom. A Lowell man says that too many poets extoll the beauty of the spring flowers, the violet, the anemone, the valley lily, the daffodil, the crocus, all for their delicacy and loveliness, but neglect to praise the beauty and hardiness of the fall flowers. Much can be said for the wayside bloom that nods pleasantly, during summer's heat, that greets fall with a steady stalk. We consider Queen Anne's Lace or wild carrot, as beautiful as the choicest cultivated beauty. Consider the bloom of the sumach, the glory of the golden rod, and they take their place in your heart. Why overlook the round faced sunflower, that used to grace the yard, to edge the chicken yard? It hid unsightly spots, grew to large proportions, dropped its seed for grateful poultry, and added its charm of yellow color to the local picture. We think poets have passed up some pretty good material, in their making of verse.

Up and Down Kent County Roads

H. R. Vining, Kent County Agricultural Agent

Kent County's entries in the State 4-H Fair at Michigan State College early in the month fared well. Reports received by our offices showed that 33 individuals having exhibits received recognition in some way or another.

In the dairy cattle exhibits Kent's Jerseys did well. Jack Vredenburg of Cannon had a first on his three-year-old Jersey cow and reserve champion; Jeanne Bancroft of Alto received third on her two-year-old heifer and first on a senior calf with Sharon Davis of Rockford taking second place in the same class. The Kent County Jersey herd was third.

Dale Johnson of Alto did well on his Poland Chinas in the sow pig class taking first and second place. Kent County taking first place in the breeding herd of Poland Chinas with Dale's pigs making up the class.

Jeanne Daistra of Ada with her Hampshire and Rambouillet sheep took a second place on a ram lamb; first and second on an aged ewe, champion ram and reserve champion ewe.

Betty Werner won the championship in the light horse and the fitting and showmanship special class. For her excellent work she was awarded one of the Arabian colts given by the Michigan Horse Breeders' Association and Upjohn Farms. Kent placed first in a class of three horses from one county. There may have been other awards in other livestock entries.

Dick Machiele tells me Kent County won its share of honors in the clothing, handicraft, canning, flowers, electricity and similar entries.

In the dairy judging contest this column has already commented on Maurice Roberts' winning a place on the state dairy judging team. Eli Roberts and Darrell Schmuker of Sparta won the electrical-safety demonstration contest. Karl Anderson and Maurice Roberts of Sparta won the dairy demonstration in producing clean milk. Awards will be made to these teams but what they are I do not know as this is written.

Bruce Bergy, Jerry Wells, Audrey and Ardith Kauffman, Tom Cornell, Patty Lundy and Joan Carlson, all of Alto, and Mike Patterson of Cascade. Seven other Kent County exhibitors in this contest will receive five dollar awards.

Our extension staff who attended the State Show through the week report a well managed affair. Dick Machiele was chairman of the "Grievance Committee." Ruth Eliason worked on the Style Revue committee and Dan Anderson was judge of demonstration team contests.

WHICH WILL YOU BE CATCHING WHEN YOU'RE 55?

MOST FOLKS dream of being able to take things easy after 55 . . . of being able to pursue a life of leisure while they're young enough to enjoy it.

But unfortunately, many of us find ourselves at 55 still catching the bus to the job instead.

Lucky for you, however, there's a safe, sound way to protect your future financial security today—U. S. Security Bonds!

Security Bonds require only a little spare cash every week—yet return you a whopping big nest egg in ten years. For example: as little as $3.75 invested regularly every week will bring you $2,163.45 by 1958!

And there are two easy, automatic ways to get your Bonds.

1. If you work for wages or salary, you can get your Security Bonds through Payroll Savings—the only installment buying plan.
2. If you are in business, or in a profession, and the Payroll Savings Plan is not available, you can sign up for the Bond-A-Month Plan at your local bank.

Choose the sum you can afford and sign up today. Then, at 55 perhaps you can start catching fish—and forget about catching that bus every morning!

P. S. Your Security Bond dollars do more than give YOU security. They help you fight inflation. For wise saving means more stable spending—fewer dollars to bid up prices on scarce goods. Also every dollar invested in Bonds retires an equal amount in inflationary credit.

Uncle Sam Says

Regardless of the heat wave, you can't afford to be lazy about your future, because the future holds for you what you hold for the future. Ben Franklin didn't make this statement, but any United States Savings Bonds payroll saver who works with you could claim this bit of advice as his or her own. All he has to do is to sign his name once on the card for the United States Savings Bonds payroll savings plan. His employer does all the rest. Three dollars saved through the payroll savings plan get Mr. Summertime Lazybones four dollars 10 years hence.

SHORT STORY

No Need For Words

By LILA LENNON

IT HAD been a silly quarrel, really, Peg reflected. The quarrel had started from such an insignificant thing as her new hair-do.

Now, here she was sitting alone, the slam of the front door still ringing in her ears.

Bob had gone out alone, and on a Thursday night, too. That was what really hurt most, because Thursday nights were such special nights. The stores were all open, and after the dishes were done, Bob and Peg always went window shopping. There never was a lot of money to spend. Sometimes they did buy one or two little things, and it was always such fun!

Peg thought for a moment about how Bob used to tuck her hand under his arm and say, "Some day, honey, I'll give you all the things you want." And she had always said:

"But I have what I really want . . . you. And, what we share has no price. It would be measured in terms of dollars and cents!"

It was true, Peg reflected. You can't put a price on the magic of contentment and love and understanding.

Understanding! It was something of a shock to discover that Bob could be so critical . . . and so stubborn. And, he hadn't understood, at all.

Bob had been tired . . . but even so, all she had done was to say, "You haven't even noticed my new hair-do!"

HE SAID grumpily, "I don't know why you spent all afternoon getting that done, you look like you're getting ready to take a bath!"

"I know it," Bob admitted, 'but I hurried home so we could go shopping."

There seemed to be a broom handle stiffening in Peg's back. "I don't think I care to go shopping tonight," she answered slowly.

When the dishes were done, Bob turned to her. "Are you ready?"

Peg answered stubbornly, "I'm not going."

Bob had been equally as stubborn, though. "I won't beg you to come, Peg. I'll go alone." And he had gone, just like that.

Darkness crept over the room, but Peg didn't turn on a light. She dropped her head on her arms and remembered other Thursday nights. Bob, helping her to choose a slip, saying critically, "That looks too big for you, you're so little." Bob, looking amused . . . "Those little pink things with the bows are sure cute!"

BUT, tonight, he was alone . . . he had wanted it that way . . . what was he thinking? Did he feel the same loneliness?

Silly? No, Peg reflected, maybe it wasn't silly, after all. Maybe it was really very important. Maybe the little things were, after all, important to real understanding. Maybe . . . It was up to her, too, to be as Bob wanted her to be.

Quickly, her hair came tumbling down. When Bob came home she would say the things that were in her heart; he'd understand.

"Here," she said softly.

He walked over to the lounge. "If by any you chance in the dark? I was worried, I thought . . . went a light!"

"No," she answered quietly.

Bob cleared his throat. "Here . . . I brought you a little present." He thrust the small package into her hands. "Wait a minute, I'll turn on the light."

The light shone down on her head as Peg unfold the folds of tissue. It made little colored beams dance up from the two tiny jeweled combs.

She turned to Bob, and all the things she wanted to say rushed to her lips, but Bob was staring at her hair tumbling to her shoulders. Then he took her in his arms and held her tight. There was no need for words.

J.W. Dregge Renamed To Community Chest As General Chairman

John W. Dregge has been renamed as general chairman of the Community Chest Campaign, it was announced recently by Edward C. McCobb, president of the Chest.

John W. Dregge

Dregge, who served as general chairman for last year's drive, is a member of the Community Chest board of directors and a member of the Chest Budget committee as well as serving as a member of the boards of Villa Maria and Camp Fire Girls, both Red Feather Services. He also is a member of the organization committee of the United Health and Welfare Fund of Michigan.

Dregge entered the Army Air Corps in 1942 as a captain. He served overseas for three years as military attache to the American Legation at Cairo, Egypt, and returned to this country in 1946 when he was released from active service with the rank of colonel.

The 1949 Community Chest campaign for Grand Rapids and Kent County tentatively is set for mid-October, McCobb said. Agencies are now submitting tentative requests for minimum operating budgets to the Chest Budget committee of which Henry Petter is chairman.

Indian Skull Deformation

A strange skull deformation practiced by Indians of Mexico and parts of the southwestern United States a few centuries before arrival of the first white men is being studied at Smithsonian institution. It consisted of a marked flattening of the top of the back of the head, presumably by deliberate pressure applied to the heads of infants. In extreme cases it produced what might be described as "three-horned men" with pressure-produced protuberances on two sides and the front of the skull. This was the situation in the first case ever reported, that of a skull found by a French anthropologist about 100 years ago on the island of Sacrifices just outside Vera Cruz. No other specimens have quite reached the three-horned stage, but some of the individuals must have presented a weird appearance. In some cases the front of the skull also was flattened, producing a high, peaked head.

A&P Company Adopts New Retirement Plan

In a letter to more than 110,000 employees of the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company, John A. Hartford, president, announces that the company has adopted a retirement plan.

Entire cost of the retirement plan will be borne by the company and no employee will be required to contribute. Some details of the program, tentatively scheduled to become effective October 1, still remain to be worked out, but all full-time employees who have completed five years of service automatically become members. Those with shorter periods of service become members as soon as they have completed five years with the company.

The retirement plan is in line with the company's policy of sharing with its employees and customers savings brought about by efficiencies in the field of food distribution. It was the first in that field to adopt a five day work week for food store employees, insurance and other benefits.

In the letter to employees Mr. Hartford said:

"In adopting this plan the company is giving recognition to the loyal service of its employees who have aided in the progress and success of the company. . . . I am confident that, with your continued loyalty and cooperation, we can look forward to such successful operation in the future."

Our Policy on PONTIAC Deliveries and Prices

Despite the fact that Pontiac has built over a half-million cars since the resumption of production after the war, demand still exceeds supply. In the face of this production record, those who place orders now will still experience some delay in delivery. If you are among the many people who feel that Pontiac represents an outstanding value—and wish to order a Pontiac for future delivery—you will be interested in the following policy on retail distribution which we, as Pontiac dealers, will observe:

WE WANT YOUR ORDER.
And the sooner you place it, the sooner you will get delivery. So if you want a Pontiac, order it now.

WE WILL ESTIMATE DELIVERY DATE
Due to conditions beyond our control, we cannot give you an exact date of delivery. But based on anticipated future shipments from the factory, we will, when you place your order, give you an honest estimate of when you may expect your car. Such estimates will be reviewed any time on request.

ORDERS FILLED BY PRIORITY
A definite proportion of the cars we receive from the factory is set aside for preferential delivery to users whose work is in the public welfare and to others with certain occupational requirements. Otherwise, all orders will be filled on the basis of the time when they are received.

YOU PAY FACTORY-SUGGESTED PRICE
Due to changing economic conditions, we cannot, when you place your order, tell you exactly how much the car will cost when delivered in the future. But, at the time of delivery you will be charged only the factory suggested price on your model—which will be shown in a published list of local prices.

YOU SPECIFY ACCESSORIES
While most of our customers order their cars equipped with accessories, we do not force accessories as a condition of sale. You specify what accessories you want when ordering your car, and these are the ones (and the only ones) it will carry when delivered. Some items may be lacking due to current shortages; but none will be added.

REGARDING TRADE-INS
Naturally, if you have a car to trade, we would like to have it in order to take care of our regular used car customers. Our appraisals are fair, based on current conditions. But if you do not have a car to turn in, we still want your order and will accept it for delivery based on the conditions outlined above.

Since this is our "home town", our business and its future is based on our good relations with the people of this community. We are most happy that so many people here—as all over the country—have made Pontiac their number one choice as a new car.

Nothing pleases us more than to turn over the keys of a new Pontiac to one of the many people whose orders we have, because we know they have chosen well—for Pontiac is always a thoroughly good car, and a thoroughly good value, this year, next year, any year.

Migraine—Malady of the Emotions

Scientists find deliberately suppressed or unconscious feelings of anger is a basic cause of migraine headaches. How science is straightening out these mental twists to bring relief to migraine sufferers, is described in "Migraine—Malady of Emotions," in The American Weekly, great magazine with this Sunday's (Sept. 19) issue of The Detroit Sunday Times.

Week's Best Recipe

Quick Apple Strudel: 2 c sifted flour, 3 t baking powder, ½ t salt, 2 T sugar, 4 T shortening, 2/3 to ¾ c milk, 3 c chopped apple, ¾ c sugar, 1 t cinnamon, confectioner's sugar, chopped nuts. Sift together flour, baking powder, salt and sugar. Cut in shortening and add milk to make soft dough. Turn on floured board, knead gently. Roll out ¼ in. thick. Brush with melted margarine, cover with chopped apple, Sprinkle sugar, cinnamon, over apple. Roll jelly-roll style and form in semi-circle on greased baking sheet. Bake in moderate oven 20-25 min. While warm, frost with white frosting made by beating confectioner's sugar with little hot water until smooth, flavor with vanilla. Sprinkle chopped nuts over frosting. Yield: 12 one-inch slices.

For Luncheons

Serve company this easily prepared dish. Put halves of hard-boiled eggs on bottom of greased casserole. Cover with canned mushroom soup, top with crumbled potato chips. Bake 20 minutes in moderate oven. Use same method for tuna fish casserole. Put layer of potato chips on bottom, one-half can of shredded or broken tuna meat as second layer, onehalf can of cream of mushroom soup as next layer. Repeat process ending with topping of crumbled potato chips. Bake same length of time.

Children's Clothes

A tip from an extension clothing specialist is to cover clothes for youngsters who out-grow them so rapidly. Buy a snowsuit one year, a coat the next. Be sure there is plenty of room in the garment. See that shoulder line is loose enough for freedom of movement, yet fits to stay in place. Plain clothing with similar type fastening for children to learn how to fasten and unfasten their garments. Elastic should not go more than half way around and not be so tight it leaves red marks on the skin.

Inspirational

Preserving cut flowers. Because some years ago we developed a double-spray process for preserving flowers, we are much interested both in the triple treatment which is said to preserve cut flowers indefinately and even more in the simpler and cheaper single treatment which lengthens the life of most cut flowers several times. For example, gardenias, which develop a yellowish-brown color in a few hours at room temperature, remain in excellent condition for 24 to 36 hours after being treated. Treatment with a 10 percent dispersion of latex cuts evaporation loss by 50 percent. The dispersion can be applied by ordinary air compressor equipment, by a hand spray, or by dipping. It evaporates quickly and leaves a film less than one-thousandth of an inch thick which is perfectly transparent and possesses a very low moisture-vapor transmission coefficient.

Peach stains—as you probably know—are hard to remove. Sponge such a stain with cold water, then work glycerine or a soapless shampoo into it and rub lightly between the hands. Let stand several hours then apply a few drops of vinegar. Allow the vinegar to remain on for a few minutes, then rinse thoroughly in cool water.

SHORT STORY

Biggest, Not Best

By ANNA WILSON

"I HAD him hooked and was playing him," Sol's voice drifted across the wisteria to Cal's porch as Cal held forth in the local store. "Then he went round that old rock that sticks out just beneath Calder's Bend and my line snapped. I just saw his tail flicker as he broke water with my hook still in his mouth and—well, you know how it is, boys." Cal could hear the laugh Sol always got when he talked of Old Rusty. "It's always the big one that gets away."

Never knew a man so set on catching Rusty as Sol was—used to spend a lot of time fixing up fancy flies and such, but he never had a bit of luck. Used to swear the big fish laughed at him, especially after the big picnic.

The picnic was over at Calder and everybody knew that both Sol and Jim Cady aimed to take Nancy Brain. You'd never know Sol and Jim were brothers. Sol was up and coming while Jim was tall, lanky and never looked much in his clothes, but steady, with a slow smile.

Cal had gone down the stream to sit by the big elm when Sol and Nancy came down. Sol was pleading with Nancy and once it looked as if she was giving in.

"I'm not sure, Sol." Nancy was so sol and didn't want to make a mistake. "The things you do don't seem so terribly important but they show up a lot—but in marriage a man needs—"

"Oh, courage and endurance and sportsmanship—a lot of things."

Her eyes suddenly lit up. "Tell you what, Sol, everybody here has tried to catch Old Rusty. Let me see you try."

Sol went off for his line and Nancy came and sat down by Cal. She looked downright miserable.

OLD RUSTY always lay out under a big rock right across from where Nancy sat with Uncle Cal. Sol spent all of 30 minutes trying out flies. He was satisfied at last, and cast with a flourish. It seemed as if Sol had all the luck in the world for Old Rusty rose to the fly and snapped. Sol let out a whoop, and started to play the big fish that rushed away downstream and Sol followed letting out his reel. Rusty made straight for that sharp old limestone outcrop and snarled the line. Cal could hear Sol losing his temper and floundering in the brush and it came to him that Rusty must have got away.

"Well, Nancy," said Cal, placidly, "it's not likely Rusty'll bite again. Maybe, we should go and say something to Sol." Just then Sol came back, his face red and angry and a gaping rip in his pants, revealing a long, angry scratch. Nancy's indecision was forgotten as she started to patch up Sol, dabbing him with iodine from Cal's pocket kit. It did look as if Nancy had at last made up her mind, but just then someone called for Sol to come and meet Senator Rand. Sol went off, patting Nancy's hand.

"I'll just fix the senator up, Nancy, and be right back—boy, we'll have something to tell them, won't we, honey?" He laughed at Nancy's desperate, "Wait, Sol."

Somehow they had forgotten about Jim—the mess was so soft that they came right up behind him unseen.

"Rusty," Nancy scarcely breathed for Jim was playing the big fish—he played it steadily, grimly, without moving, and this time the big fish knew he'd met his master at Jim reeled him in.

It was fighting desperately as Jim took it and he detached the two hooks from its mouth gently—then Jim did a funny thing. "You're a grand fighter, Rusty," he said softly, and threw the big fish back in.

Cal and Nancy stole away quietly on the soft grass. Nancy was thoughtful, you could tell.

Yes, folks said afterwards that Sol looked higher than Nancy Brain when he married the senator's daughter, but Cal smiled cagily when Nancy married Jim.

CMC in soaps. One problem in washing clothes has always been the redeposit of the dirt. No matter what is used, after the dirt has been washed out of the fabric into the suds, it always tends to go back into the fabric out of the suds. But now a remedy may be applied to all soaps synthetics, or mixtures. When the dirt is once washed out of the clothes this chemical grabs onto it and holds it in solution so that it cannot return to the goods. The compound is CMC (carboxy methyl cellulose). It has been used in solutions that need to be thickened—cosmetics, wave sets, ice cream, etc. It is an emulsion stabilizer. Since the product is both cheap and plentiful, we may see it soon in all sorts of washing compounds.
