Hand-operated mechanical fruit dumper

developed for growers and packers

Profits of fruit growers and packers have always suffered from "bruising." Ordinarily, fruit is injured while being dumped from field crates onto receiving belts. The Agricultural Experiment Station at Michigan State College, along with the United States Department of Agriculture, has developed a mechanical device which helps workers dump fruit carefully and easily, reducing both damage and labor. Rigid tests show that this mechanical dumper helps control the flow of fruit, has a capacity of several hundred bushels per hour, and is thoroughly dependable. Growers and packers of apples, peaches, pears and onions may call, write or visit their County Agricultural Agent for further

New life for telephone equipment

The young lady is not administering a blood transfusion—she is using a newly developed device for replacing carbon granules in telephone transmitters. This is just one of hundreds of ways the Bell Telephone System gives new life to equipment that has been in use. Telephone instruments, switching equipment, even telephone booths-they are all checked constantly, repaired or salvaged. Economy measures of this sort mean efficient telephone service at low cost.

Red Cross, on a basis of individual need, made awards totaling $5,416,550 for assistance in rebuilding and repairing 2,945 homes in that county alone. In the upper photo, a Red Cross worker examines wreckage of a house, typical of damage in the Argentine and Armourdale districts of Kansas City, to estimate its replacement cost. In the four states, 32,057 homes were destroyed or damaged.

Thanksgiving came early for Mrs. Hazel Moberly, below, left, whose house was the first Red Cross-built new house completed in Kansas City, one of 2,945 being repaired or built new in Wyandotte County by the Red Cross. On October 6, she received the key to the house, rebuilt on the old foundation in Kansas City's Argentine district. Red Cross also here old foundation in Kansas City's Argentine district. Something new in passenger car design is Chrysler Corporation's K-310 European type sports acdan developed as an experimental companion to a powerful new Chrysler K-310 engine which produces 310 horse-power on ordinary premium grade gasoline without supercharging. Styled and designed by Chrysler engineers in the United States, the K-310 experimental car was built by Carrozzeria Ghia in Turin, Italy, on a chassis shipped to Europe by Chrysler. Built on a 125½-inch wheelbase, the car is only 59 inches high, with low sweeping lines and full head-room, with a low flat hood and large wire wheels. K. T. Keller, Chairman of the Board of Chrysler Corporation, said the K-310 sets "entirely new objectives to reach for" in passenger car development. Whether it will be produced for sale has not yet been decided.

the Navy Department and particularly the Marines have taken pos-itive steps to reduce dissatisfaction among Marine reservists, to reduce the number of able-bodied men performing "chair corps" duties, and to include "cost consciousness" among categories rated for officer fitness. A Senate Subcommittee on Preparedness so reported after a careful check. The Army and the Air Force would do well to follow suit. An over-all Department of Defense program of this sort would boost morale and save money. Uncle Sam needs emphasis on both points during wartime.

A joint Congressional "economy committee recently reported a cutback in federal payrolls for the first time since the start of the Korean War. Government workers totaled $2,509,394 in August and $2,495,519 in September. Some reductions were seasonal but most of the cutbacks resulted from ecosomy amendments approved during the last session of the Corgress. It is hoped the trend will continue.

The recent elections in a number of states will result in this situation in the House of Representatives: Democrats, 233, Republicans, 200: Independents, one. There is still one vacancy to be filled—in the traditionally Republican Nebraska Third District. Election date: December 4th. Although the Republicans picked up one new member, the President and his party will still have a numerical majority in the House of Representatives.

Cool Sleep

A plastic mattress with four vertical chambers has the inner half filled with air, the outer half with Germany where the processing will be completed, and the expelless scheduled for transportation to the water. The inner chambers 'are filled with a bicycle pump, and the water chambers are filled with a hose and, if necessary, a funnel. Body heat flows into the water, thence into air; the water is kep Perhaps Russia would be atisfied next to the body.
